Horse Show Proves Big Attraction At County Fair

ATTENDANCE ON THURSDAY OVER 10,000

Hot Weather Holds Crowds Back During Day Time But Races Draw Many

DOG SHOW IS OPENED

Santa Monica Band to Play This Afternoon—Horse Show On Again Tonight

HOT WEATHER lassitude and a classy program of horse races and dog show were competing today for the attendance of the Orange County fair. The fair management was hopeful that the traditional Friday big attendance would hold true and somewhat offset the inroads into gate receipts made yesterday by Old Sol.

After one of the smallest day crowds of the fair yesterday, the attendance recuperated as the sun went down and the estimated audience last night was 10,000 persons. The day's total was approximately 13,000 persons.

The horse show opening last night drew some 3000 of the fair visitors. The opening of the racing program yesterday afternoon was not so well attended.

The horse show tonight will see Miss Madeline McCleave, daughter of James McCleave, Victoria, B. C. horse exhibitor, in action on the McCleave mounts, which are featuring in the show this year. Miss McCleave will ride in the blue ribbon jumping event, the corduroy jump, the automobile jump and the high jump.

The show program tonight also includes a potato race for Orange County boy riders. Riders from the northern section of the county will compete against youths from the south. A steeple chase, musical chairs and an exhibition of draft horses will be part of tonight's horse show.

The feature event of last night's horse show, the $500 stake, offered by Fred Bixby, for Orange county stock horses, was won by Deacon, owned by Guy H. Campbell, of Fullerton. First prize was $200. The second prize of $150 was won by the Rogue, owned by Gold Lindaur, of La Habra. Pavo of John E. Wagner, Placentia, took the third prize of $100, and Darkie, also owned by Wagner, was awarded the $50 fourth prize.

COAST TO COAST FLIGHT OF ARMY BOMBERS PROVES THAT FACILITIES ARE INADEQUATE

By HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

ENROUTE TO LOS ANGELES, Aboard Army Bomber, Sept. 7.—(UP)—Commercial airport facilities under present conditions have proved inadequate to provide for national defense needs in case a sudden mobilization of United States air force on the western coast.

A United Press survey of this week's tactical maneuver in the army's crack bombing outfit, the second observation group, showed that the attempt to transport its tons-plane explosive death and destruction ability to the Pacific Coast for a quick attempt to stop a theoretical threatening enemy fleet has failed. The Langley Field groups, flying in the great Liberty motored planes, has been almost perfect but the time lost in fueling and delays caused by inadequate facilities would prevent any such group crossing the continent in less than four days under present conditions.

Lack of night flying equipment over dangerous terrainals hindered the group's attempt to make speed. A log of the delays due to improper fueling illustrates why as much time has been taken in fueling as in flying.

The group which has been in the air only thirty hours in making 1600 miles from Langley to Midland, Texas, planned to reach Tucson tonight by making a four o'clock start this morning, if the army fueling facilities at El Paso, the intermediate stop, are adequate and quick.

The bombing plane is regarded as potentially the most destructive agent of war, especially as to munitions and moral, in view of the recent rapid strides in transport aviation. The army has less than forty of them in commission, but 44 more even larger machines with lighter, more powerful air cooled motors, are to be delivered to the army next year at a cost of about $35,000 each without battle equipment.

The log of the fueling delays, most of which are ascribed by the flying officers to the fact that the airports are laid out and operated chiefly for the convenience of the lighter commercial planes, is as follows:

Fort Bragg, N. C., (army post) one and one-half hours for servicing with oil and gasoline. The post has insufficient gasoline trucks to service the planes all at once.

Augusta, Ga., commercial airport, two and three-fourths hours. Bulky planes had to taxi up to underground storage tank hoses, and also to pump gasoline from drums.

Montgomery, Ala., army post, three hours, situation similar to Fort Bragg.

Monroe, La., commercial airport, two and one-half hours, after which

NEW BRUSH FIRE BURNS 7000 ACRES

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 7—(INS)—A new brush fire had burned over 7000 acres within 30 miles of this city and has not yet definitely been controlled today.

So numerous have become the fire outbreaks that Country Fire Warden Luther Gordon, with headquarters at La Mesa, summoned representatives of back country communities into conference at his camp in the newest big fire area early today and effected an organization of intercommunity participation in mustering fire fighters.

Start of the latest extensive fire is problematical, having broken out high on the westerly slope of San Miguel mountain in a region not reported by roads nor trails. Hunters may have climbed the mountain side.

Woman Sentenced To Electric Chair In Georgia Murder

CHATSWORTH, Ga., Sept. 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Eula Thompson was sentenced in circuit court today to die in the electric chair September 21 for the murder of Coleman Osborne, a country store-keeper, a year ago.

It was the second time the woman had been sentenced.

She appealed her first sentence to the chair, but the plea was refused.

Should she fail to get clemency, she will be the first woman to die in the electric chair in this state.

Mother Saves Child's Life In Auto Wreck

HAYWARD, Calif., Sept. 7.—(INS)—Pinioned beneath an automobile with her four-year-old daughter, Mrs. Brigida De Paredes, of Alvarado, saved her child's life when she allowed the weight of the car to rest on her own body, it was revealed here today.

Mother and child were driving home from here when the car turned over. Both were caught beneath the machine. The mother was able to extricate herself, but the child, unable to move, was in danger of being crushed to death as the car settled. The mother then crawled beneath the automobile and let its weight rest on her until both were rescued by passing motorists.

The child was uninjured. The mother suffered a sprained back.

SANTA ANA HAS CHANCE TO GET MOORING MAST

Naval Aircraft Commander Will Pay Visit Next Week to Santa Ana

SANTA ANA still has a chance for being selected as the location point of a mooring mast for government dirigibles, according to George Raymer, who was in communication by telephone today with Capt. R. F. McCreary, commander of naval aircraft at North Island, San Diego.

The Santa Ana secretary was informed by McCreary that he would be here some time next week to look over the Orange county airport, proposed location for a mast that is to be moved from San Diego. The county has offered 40 acres of the port site for the mooring mast and the mast will be installed without further cost to the county if the port finally is selected as the location, Raymer said.

It was pointed out by Raymer that location of the mast here probably would result in big army dirigibles coming here frequently during maneuvers.

Commenting on the fact that Santa Ana has been eliminated as a possible home base for one of the two new dirigibles the government has authorized, Raymer said the result was due to the fact that San Diego provided a site free as against a $3,000,000 consideration for the Santa Ana site. On his visit to Washington, last April, Raymer said he presented the navy department an offer of 1000 acres southeast of this city, the price to the government to be $1200 an acre at the end of 25 years, with net interest to James Irvine of six per cent per annum on the $1,200,000 representing the value of the land. Interest charges for the 25-year period would amount to $1,800,000, the secretary said.

In his conversation with Captain McCreary, Raymer learned that citizens of San Diego purchased the Camp Kearny site of 1000 acres and gave it outright to the government and that the city was pledged to the purchase of approximately 400 acres more, or whatever acreage may be required to provide land space for homes of officers that will be stationed there by creation of the point as the home base for one of the dirigibles. Captain McCreary said that Admiral Moffett was in San Diego today looking over the field with a view to selection of the site needed for homes of officers.

At Camp Kearny 750 acres will be devoted to the dirigible plant and 250 acres to manufacturing plants.

ORANGE SEEKS TO HALT S. A. ANNEX PLANS

Applies to Attorney General for Permission to Stop Move Here

THAT THE city of Orange has taken another step in its efforts to prevent territory north of Santa Ana from becoming a part of this city after residents in the district had voted for identification with Santa Ana, was revealed this afternoon, when City Attorney C. D. Swanner was served with notice that the city of Orange had made application to the attorney general for permission to bring, in the name of the people of California, a stuit to prevent the annexation of the territory.

Swanner has 10 days in which to file answer and show reasons why the requested permission should not be given. The city attorney indicated that he would cite, among other points, the fact that suit now is pending in the appellate court on the point of the right of that territory to become annexed to Santa Ana or to Orange.

Judge Allen, of the superior court, ruled, in a suit brought by Orange to prevent effectiveness of the annexation election, that Orange did not have right to the territory because it was not contiguous to the limits of that city. Orange took an appeal and the appeal is pending in the appellate court.

It will be recalled that several months ago voters in a district to the north voted to annex to Santa Ana. The district runs west from Main street to a point 130 feet west of North Broadway extended, and north from the north cityy limits to the south line of Chapman avenue, with a strip 200 feet wide extending along the south side of Chapman west to the Santa Ana river. Prior to the election for annexation to Santa Ana, property owners in a portion of this territory petitioned Orange for annexation to that city and later voted annexation of the territory.

TEMPERATURE SOARS TO 103 IN SANTA ANA ON THURSDAY

Summer heat here stepped up to the high point of the season yesterday, when the government instrument kept by E. E. Campbell, near Fairhaven and Tustin avenues, registered 103 degrees at 1:30 p. m. Low for the 24-hour period was 56.

According to printed records of temperatures in Los Angeles yesterday, the high was 95 at 2 p. m. Commenting on this, Campbell pointed out that the weather bureau there maintains its instruments on top of a high building. The instrument here is on the ground, with regulation government equipment. The Campbell instrument registered 68 at 7 a. m., 98 at 12 m., and 80 at 5 p. m., yesterday.

The local instrument was installed on the Campbell ranch seven years ago, and the operator reported high points for September of each year as follows: September 26, 1921, 102; 16th and 17th, 1922, 103 and 106, respectively; 6th, 1923, 92; 29th, 1924, 103; 25th, 1925, 93; 9th, 1926, 87.

AL SMITH WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN IN OMAHA, NEB.

Plans Discussion of Three Issues on Western Trip Week After Next

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(UP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith will open his presidential campaign in territory claimed by the enemy beyond the Mississippi the week after next by tackling at the outset the three issues he has made dominant—farm relief, water power and prohibition.

He will deal principally with the farm question in his first address at Omaha, Nebr., the center of the wheat belt, on Sept. 18. He will discuss the water power issue, with particular emphasis upon the Boulder dam project, in his third speech at Denver, Colo., Sept. 22, Colorado being one of the seven states involved in that monster water power, irrigation and flood control project.

The Democratic candidate also will talk generally of other campaign issues, including prohibition, in these two speeches, and the second one at Oklahoma City, Okla., On Sept. 20. He is expected to emphasize his intention, if elected, to enforce rigidly the

GAME WARDEN OF STATE IS FOUND KILLED

George Thompson Believed To Have Been Murdered By An Irate Hunter

BULLETIN

GRIDLEY, Calif., Sept. 7.—(INS)—Charles Hogeboom, 60, member of a prominent Sutter county family and former inmate of a state hospital for the insane, today confessed to shooting and killing State Game Warden George Thompson, 50, of Gridley, this morning when the officer asked Hogeboom to see his hunting license.

Hogeboom was lodged in the Sutter county jail and charges of murder will be preferred against him by Sheriff Ben Monford.

GRIDLEY, Calif., Sept. 7.—(INS)—Believed to have been murdered by a hunter with whom he had a quarrel, the body of George Thompson, 50, state game warden of Gridley, was found in a field at a point seven miles north of here today by J. M. Ferguson, rancher.

The top of Thompson's head had been blown off by two charges from a shotgun.

That the game warden was undoubtedly murdered was the opinion of Sheriff Ben Monford, of Sutter county, who is investigating the case. Sheriff Monford believes that Thompson was shot after he had engaged in an argument with a dove hunter, who had violated the state game laws.

There was no gun near the body when found and it was evident that the charges had struck Thompson from the rear.

Thompson left his home in Gridley early this morning to look for game law violators. He had lived in Gridley for the last 20 years and he leaves a wife and four children. He was a native of Sutter county.

P. E. Rowe, Sutter county coroner, after taking charge of the body, also expressed the opinion that Thompson had been murdered.

Sheriff Monford has instituted a search for the murderer.

Thompson's widow scouted the idea of suicide, saying that her husband had been in good spirits and had no reason to take his life.

That the shooting might have been accidental was also believed improbable as the body was found in a level field where Thompson would have been in clear sight of anyone using a shotgun.

Heavy Fog Causes Postponement Of Air Derby Takeoff

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(INS)—A heavy "pea soup" fog over the eastern states today forced a postponement of the takeoff for class B and class C streets in the trans-continental air derby to Los Angeles.

Even the air mail flyers quit for the day in the territory east of Middletown, Pa., and word came to Roosevelt field that the fog was worse than the mist blanket that caused the death of "Merry" Merrill about a week ago.

Gangsters Get Revenge After Raid On Club

Wife and Child of Officer Injured in Blast at Early Hour Today

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—(UP)—A dynamite bomb today demolished the front of Police Captain Luke Garrick's home. The officer's wife, Mrs. Anna E. Garrick, who had been suffering from heart disease, was thrown from her bed by the explosion and taken to a hospital in a critical condition. A 7-month-old grandchild was cut by flying glass.

Captain Garrick a few hours before had led a raid on the Minerva club and arrested 64 men. He believed the bombing was the result of the raid.

Garrick is known here as a strict disciplinarian and a man who "goes out and does things." He was transferred from a quiet northwest side police station to the turbulent Desplaines section — across the river from the loop—as one of the first moves in commissioner William F. Russell's cleanup campaign.

Immediately things started to hum in the district. Garrick was given his pick of men on the force and started a drive. Last night's raid on the Minerva club operated by Dago Lawrence Mangano, climaxed these operations. The raiding force completely wrecked the place.

The raid was at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Garrick has been under care of a nurse since January, suffering from heart trouble. A physician advised Garrick at 1 a. m., that her condition was decidedly improved.

At 4 a. m., a nurse went to administer medicine and noticed an automobile stop in front of the Garrick duplex apartment.

She hurried to tell Capt. Garrick, but the bomb exploded before she could reach him.

The outer wall of the house fell over the bed on which Mrs. Garrick lay sleeping. She was not injured, but suffered from shock and was taken to a hospital.

Colletta Klauke, 6-months-old granddaughter of the Garrick's, could not be found. A frantic search revealed the baby buried under a pile of debris.

Manago has been arrested and will be charged with the bombing, according to Assistant Commissioner John Stege.

100 MEN TRAPPED IN JACKSON MINE

JACKSON, Calif., Sept. 7.—(INS)—More than 100 men were being rescued today from the Kennedy mine after a fire which started in a log pile outside the mine spread to the mine shaft destroying the gallows frame and the hoisting machinery and causing a half million dollars damage.

The men were being removed through a tunnel which leads from the Kennedy mine to the adjoining Argonaut mine. The tunnel was drilled in 1922 when a shift of men were trapped in the Argonaut mine, many losing their lives.

Word from the men who have already been hoisted from the shaft of the Argonaut brought assurances that all the entrapped men in the Kennedy mine had been accounted for and were waiting to be hoisted to safety.

MRS. EMMIE FLOOD, S. A. PIONEER, DEAD

Mrs. Emmie Flood, 65, mother of Dr. W. A. Flood, prominent Santa Ana dentist, dropped dead shortly before noon today, while she was inspecting a walnut grove she owned, on McFadden street.

A pioneer citizen of Santa Ana, Mrs. Flood had lived here since 1894. She had resided at 847 North Broadway for a number of years.

The body was removed to the Smith and Tuthill funeral parlors.

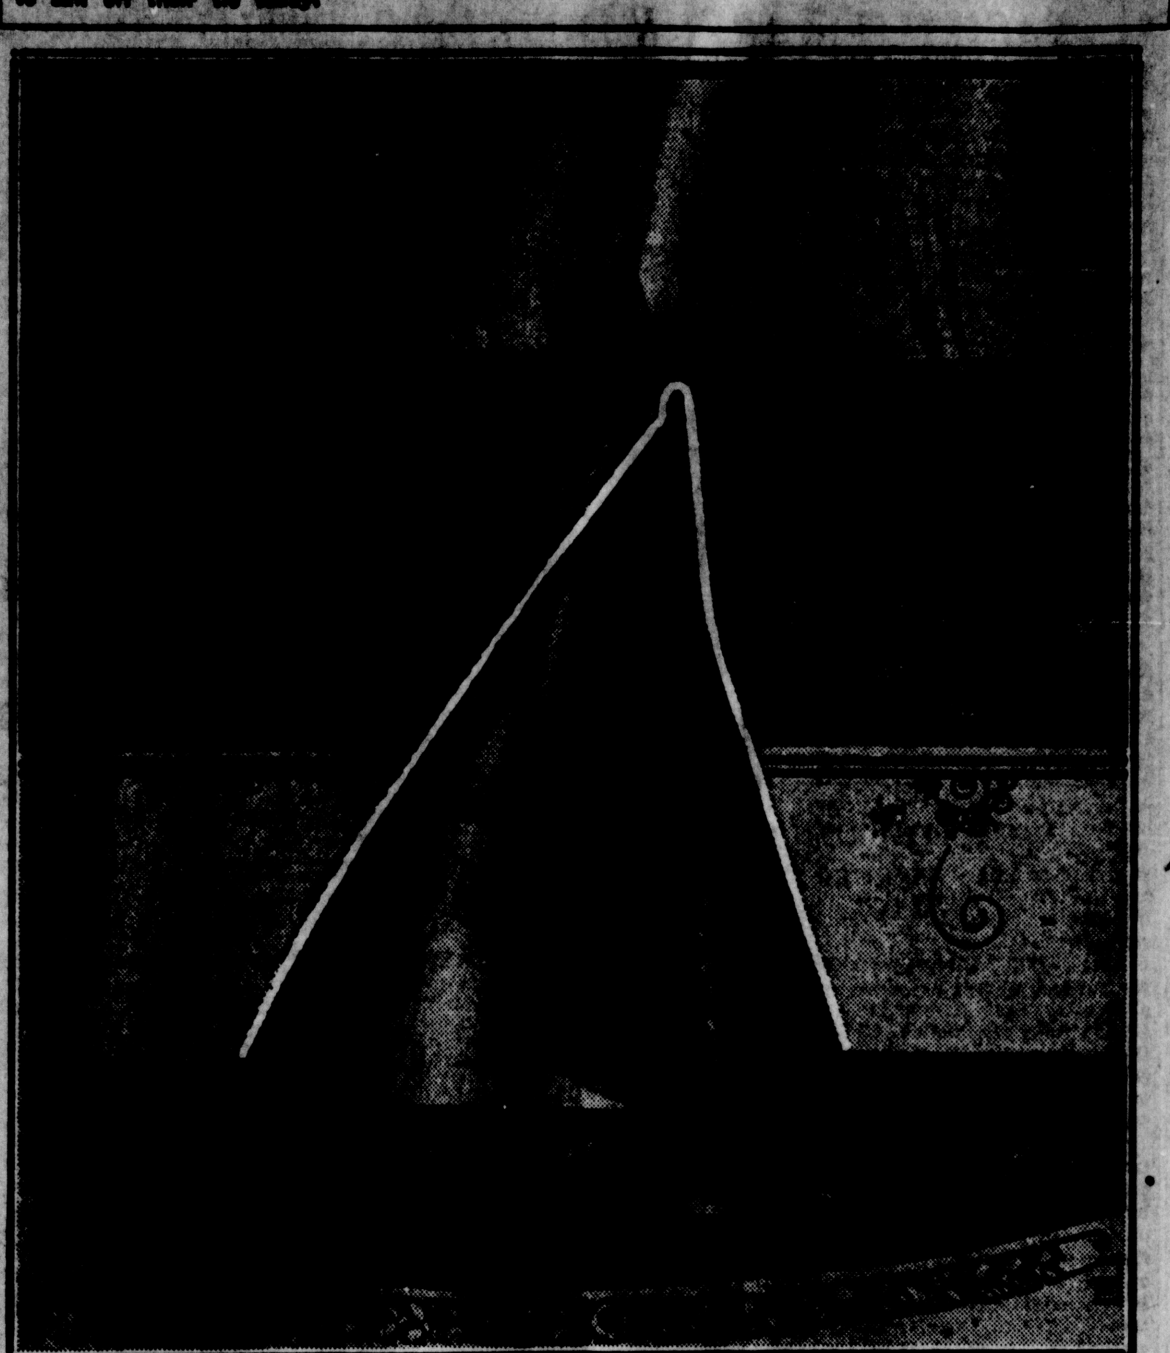
Sparkler, Of New Orleans, New Star Boat Champ[illegible]

WHEN THE STARS STARTED AND FINISHED

They were all even when they started, as the top picture proves, but the Sparkler II, shown below, was there first at the finish. The Sparkler, flying the flag of the Southern Yacht club, New Orleans, won the International Star Boat series by accumulating 68 points, one more than was gathered by Windward of San Diego and the Okla, of Southport, Conn. The Windward and the Okla were to sail off their tie today.



SAN DIEGO BOAT IS ELIMINATED IN FINAL RACE

BY S. H. LUCAS

With 68 points credited to her, the Yacht Sparkler II is today the international champion in the star class as the result of her showing in the five-day competition just concluded. The vessel is owned by Prentice Edrington, of New Orleans, and flys the colors of the Southern Yacht club. Her victory means that next year's races for international star class honors will be run in the Louisiana city.

Second place ended in a tie between the Oklahoma, owned by J. F. Watkins, and the Windward, owned by Joe Jessop.

Third place goes to Rey Schauer's Movie Star II, while the Undine, owned by the Johnson brothers, of Chesapeake bay, captured fourth prize.

The fifth and final race of the International Star Class Yacht Racing association, yesterday afternoon, was won by Movie Star of Los Angeles. "Okla" registered second, four minutes and fifty-nine seconds later; beating Sparkler II, who finished third, by 33 seconds.

The tabulation of points won during the five races, gave Sparkler II (P. E. Edrington jr.) of New Orleans 68 points; "Windward" (Joe Jessop) of San Diego, and "Okla" (J. F. Watkins) of Southport, Conn., 67 each; "Movie Star" 63 and Budsal, fifth, 62.

Cup to New Orleans

The cup goes to New Orleans to sit in state in the old club house of the Southern Yacht club on Lake Pontchertrain.

The Pacific coast made a good try to retain the cup and came within six inches of doing so.

"Movie Star" fell down on Tuesday and after winning today needed five more points. Tempe was eliminated as a possible by "fouling out" on Tuesday.

This not only put her out of the running, but it brought up all boats finishing below her by a point. This added a point to "Sparkler" but did not help "Windward" as she finished ahead of her that day. That point won for "Sparkler." If no fouls had been allowed, Jessop would have been tied with "Okla" for first place with 67 points each.

Jessop Ahead at Start

Jessop started the race two points to the good, and as the weather was light, California hopes were high. Joe was pocketed at the start and was not allowed to get away. Apparently the "Arrow" had been told off to keep Joe covered as he never let him get away during the first beat to windward.

Joe took a long leg up the coast to keep out of the current while making his westing. This was good reasoning and would win nine times out of ten, but the breeze outside was stronger and two points more to the south, thus letting the boats who had previously stood out to sea, lay up to the mark, and leaving the long shore boats away to windward. When they reached the outer mark Jessop was fifteenth, nine minutes and thirty seconds behind the leader. Then began the most wonderful and effective drive it has been our good fortune to see. Discouraged, but not yet defeated Jessop made "Windward" perform.

Passes Five Boats

On the run home before the wind he passed five boats and cut down the margin of the leader by half, rounding tenth. On the next beat out, he passed five more, and rounded in fifth place, eight seconds ahead of "Budsal II." On the run home his lead was gradually cut until it was neck and neck and at the finish Budsal being to leeward shot in on a wave over the shorter end of the course, a foot to the good. The loss of this point gave Sparkler who finished third, the necessary margin to win and tied up second place with Okla who finished second.

Robinson of New Suffolk, New York, deserves great credit for his sailing of the last leg, which sent the cup to New Orleans, and he sailed a good race throughout, finishing the four legs, third, fourth, sixth and fifth.

This writer predicted before the series that five thirds would be enough to win the big cup. Mr. Edrington won it with an eighth, fifth, third, third and third. He was never better than third but proved the most consistent sailor.

"Movie Star" showed the class of the fifth race, as she made the weather mark the first time fourth, rounded home mark, fifth; the outer mark first; and finished first, four minutes and fifty-nine seconds to the good.

Ray Schauer was sailing today himself and after finishing the first round he went out immediately to where the wind was and made a big killing.

Special Prizes

The Invaders prize that goes to the boat, from out of the United States, which scores the most points was won by Auriga, with G. H. C. Phillips and R. M. Kerr from Vancouver, B. C. Second to Aurrera IV with Miguel de Sena and Ramon Gomez. The name is pronounced with the accent on the last syllable and is a Basque word meaning forward.

The Novice prize which is competed for by boats sailing their first I. S. C. Y. R. A. race was won by Minx. The Atwater boys said "Novice prize!" Huh! Brother and I have been racing for [illegible] years.

Second novice was won by Skipper H. S. Doulton and Earl Hay-[illegible]

[illegible] prize goes to the boat [illegible] from the most distant port [illegible] the United States, and was [illegible] "Budsall II" with the Robinsons. Second went to "Undine" the home of the "pelicans," as the Johnson boys are called. They are the hit of the meet and are the most popular of the visitors.

The Pacific Coast prize was won by "Movie Star," Ray Schauer and Eddie Fink.

Undine Gets Best Start

Undine got away to the best start and was a real contender but she stood down the coast with "Windward." In fact the best of the bunch did the same, but some stood out much sooner and profited thereby.

International Net Tourney Starts

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—Weather permitting, the International lawn tennis matches between France and the United States will be played at the Germantown Cricket club today and tomorrow.

The exhibition of Miss Helen Wills, woman champion of the world, against a male opponent, postponed yesterday along with three international contests, will be played today. Miss Wills will oppose Wilmer Allison.

Black-white is again among the season's smartest combinations. A black fur beret has its little topknot of gleaming white pearls, in the shape of a tiny leaf.

End Indigestion Instantly

Most indigestion is caused by "too much acid" in the stomach. Food sours, gas forms and causes pain and bloating. The stomach needs an alkaline to neutralize this acid, sweeten the stomach and permit normal painless digestion. Bisurated Magnesia—tablets or powder—is the ideal alkaline treatment for acid dyspepsia indigestion, because it does these things safely, speedily and surely. Tens of thousands daily take a little after every meal and no longer have a sign of stomach trouble. It will do the same for you or money back. Reliable druggists everywhere sell Bisurated Magnesia with this guarantee. [illegible]

Angeleno Jailed On 13-Month-Old Speeding Charge

E. F. Tennyson, Los Angeles, went to jail here today for speeding in Orange county more than 13 months ago.

He was arrested by James Cain, state traffic officer, on July 23, 1927, and charged with speeding 55 miles an hour.

Soon after his arrest, Tennyson went to Arizona, where he had been since that time, he told Justice Kenneth Morrison this morning. Morrison told him that another charge had grown against him since that time, that of failure to appear.

The court fined Tennyson $100 and sentenced him to serve five days in the county jail. Tennyson asked for time to start his sentence, stating that he had a preliminary examination on a felony charge against him in the Los Angeles courts on September 12, but the request was denied.

Annual Michigan Picnic Announced For September 15

Former Michigan residents of Southern California will hold their official picnic reunion in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, Saturday, September 15, 1928, it is announced by the Michigan Association of Southern California, which has been sponsoring these reunions for nearly 30 years.

Announcements of town, county or local picnics will not change this regular annual event. Dr. M. R. Parmalee, president of the association, is in charge of arrangements for the day.

TWO CENTRAL COMMITTEES CALL MEETINGS

The Republican and Democratic central committees of Orange county will meet in the courthouse next Tuesday, it was announced today. Both groups will devote themselves chiefly to organization and election of chairman, it was stated.

Ben E. Tarver, of the Democratic group, pointed out that his committee will select a secretary, also, to fill the place vacated by the resignation of Maurice Enderle.

Three vacant positions also must be filled, Tarved said, pointing out that no candidates from the fourth district had entered the race.

The Republican chairs are all taken, Earl Abbey, secretary of that committee, said in announcing the first meeting. The chief job of the Republican group will be its organization and the election of a chairman. Dr. R. A. Cushman, of Santa Ana, former chairman, announced before the primary election of August 28 that he would not be a candidate.

T. B. Talbert, of Huntington Beach; Stanley Reinhaus, of Santa Ana, and Dr. J. D. Thomas, of Olive, are among those who have been mentioned as possible chairmen.

PARKING CHARGE COSTS NEGRO $5

Dock McGill, Los Angeles Negro who was arrested several days ago because he did not "fit" the description on his operator's license, being six feet, five inches in height when the card called for a driver of five feet, six inches tall, was fined $5 in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning, but not for that offense.

McGill was fined for parking his truck and trailer on the highway. The court gave him a suspended sentence on the other charge when McGill reported, "I sent my gal after the card for me."

Regarding the highway parking, McGill said he had to park on the highway, "Cause, Jedge, I had a high load of fish boxes and I'se afraid the trees would knock 'em over."

PIPE-SMOKING BEAUTY

PARIS, Sept. 7—The region of Saint Claude, where most of the bruyere pipes smoked around the world come from, recently elected its "queen." She is Marcelle Demasure, 18, pretty, bobbed hair and she smokes—a bruyere pipe. Pipe-smoking is common among girls and women in that section of France.

COINCIDENCES KEEP SISTERS FROM VISITING EACH OTHER

Coincidence may not be the most important features in the life of the family of Fred Humiston, of this city, but it certainly has dogged thesteps of Humiston and his two daughters during this summer, it was revealed today.

Humiston, who is bailiff in department two of the superior court, paused between cases today to recall a few dates.

On June 9, he pointed out, Genevieve Humiston, Huntington Beach high school commercial teacher, left here for a trip to Europe. On the same day his daughter, Dorothy, arrived from Cedar Falls, Ia., where she is a physical education instructor in the Iowa State Teachers' college.

Yesterday Genevieve Humiston returned to Santa Ana from her trip to Europe and went at once to Huntington Beach, where she began her year's work in the high school. The plans of her sister, Dorothy, called for her departure for Cedar Falls, Ia., yesterday.

But, just to give a jolt to the coincidence jinx, Miss Dorothy Humiston decided to remain here another day. She will leave tomorrow.

"Even at that, the two girls won't have much time to compare notes," Humiston remarked.

Bowers Declines Position On Chest Budget Committee

With A. C. Bowers declining appointment to the budget committee of the Community Chest because he is scheduled to be away from the city most of the period in which the committee will function, T. E. Stephenson, vice president of the chest, today was giving consideration to appointment of a member to complete the committee.

Stephenson is officiating as head of the organization in the absence of W. V. Whitson, who will be out of the city for several weeks. Other members of the committee are E. T. McFadden, C. L. Pritchard, Mrs. Minnie Holmes and Sam Hurwitz.

At chest headquarters today, it was said that all but three of the participating agencies have filed budgets, showing the anticipated needs for the coming year. The committee will analyze the various budgets and recommend to the directors the total that should be raised in the chest drive this fall.

P. E. COMPANY WILL OIL RIGHT OF WAY

NEWPORT BEACH, Sept. 7.—The Pacific Electric right of way through Newport Beach may be oiled in the near future, it was announced here today by G. C. Macleod, secretary of the chamber of commerce. Macleod made the announcement following a conference with J. P. Gould and L. B. Denton, assistant engineers for the electric car company.

Several blocks of the right of way were oiled in the Newport Beach district recently as an experiment. The oiling was done following a suggestion of the chamber of commerce that the company take some steps to beautify and clean up the right-of-way. Methods of beautification were adjudged to be too expensive and the oiling was tried.

According to the two engineers the plan is meeting with considerable success. Dust which was formerly stirred up by passing cars is absent due to the oil and the right of way has a much neater and cleaner appearance. It is believed that the company will oil the remainder of the right of way in the city.

GARDEN GROVE PIONEERS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Approximately 150 present and former residents of the Garden Grove school district were present, yesterday, at the annual reunion and picnic of pioneers of Garden Grove, held in Bixby park, Long Beach.

Happy greetings by friends of years when the Garden Grove section was in the making was one of the features of the picnic, many men and women who were residents of the district in the early days coming from distant points.

In the afternoon a brief session of the school as of the date of 1880, was held, with Mrs. Willis Newsom, formerly Miss Sarah Miller, as the school "marm."

McGuffey readers were used as textbooks, old time songs were sung and old school-day pieces were recited.

The Rev. B. Silkwood, who crossed the plains in 49 in a prairie schooner and who has lived in Garden Grove for many years, recounted some of the early history of the community.

POLICE PRAISE FOR WORK IN LASHLEY CASE

Efficient work and co-operation of the Santa Ana police department in the case of Luther E. Lashley, of this city, were praised today by District Attorney Z. B. West jr., who declared that the activity of the police played a large part in bringing about Lashley's conviction on a charge of soliciting men to visit his wife for immoral purposes.

Throughout the proceedings against the man, the city police rendered invaluable assistance, West said, in expressing his appreciation.

Chief Claude Rogers, Assistant Chief Sid Smithwick and Officer C. L. Wolford, who made the arrest, carried out the work on the Lashley case from the police angle. Bob Sandon, investigator for the district attorney's office, was active in completing the case.

"They did a large part of the work in digging the case up and their co-operation during the proceedings against Lashley was responsible in a large measure for the result," said West.

Lashley is to be sentenced at 9:30 a.m., tomorrow, by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

DENTIST ASKS DISSOL[illegible] OF PARTNERSHIP, CLAIMING [illegible] FISTS NOT GOOD FOR BUSINESS

Patients and nurses in the dental offices of John E. Menges and Mark M. Menges, of Fullerton, were perhaps more than mildly impressed, last Wednesday, by the opening of the first round in an alleged fistic encounter between the two professional men which came to light today with the filing of a complaint for dissolution of the asserted partnership by John Menges.

Mark Menges, the defendant dentist, bored into John Menges with a punch that landed on his chin, the complaint said. There, however, the account stopped, and it was not revealed whether the alleged fight proceeded to completion of the first round or not.

John Menges, the plaintiff, conveyed the idea in his complaint, however, that he did not believe a continuance of this state of affairs was likely to prove profitable to the dental business.

The partnership was formed in 1920, but for the last two years the defendant has been disagreeable to the plaintiff's patients, has threatened to put the plaintiff out of the office and lock it up, has taken all the partnership papers and has refused to agree to an accounting or settlement of the business affairs, the complaint said.

A dissolution and accounting is sought by John Menges, who stated in his complaint that equipment valued at $10,000 is in the offices. The appointment of a referee is requested—a referee to adjust the financial situation.

MAN AND GIRL RESCUED FROM OCEAN DEATHS

Father and daughter were saved from drowning at Seal Beach late yesterday afternoon by the heroism of two men, who plunged into the water with their clothes on and brought both to safety.

Miss Lena Rebal, 19, of Norwalk, stepped into a deep hole while wading in the surf. Unable to swim and feeling herself being carried into deeper water, Miss Rebal cried for help. Her father, J. J. Rebal, heard his daughter's frantic screams and plunged in to aid her.

The father was no match for the heavy waves and, instead of helping his daughter, found himself becoming exhausted.

Their frantic cries for help reached Roy Thomas and Henry Kingston, who were passing on Ocean avenue. Without doffing their clothes, both men plunged into the ocean. Thomas was drawn under the water several times when the drowning father and daughter locked their arms about him.

The rescuers finally managed to get the near victims to the beach, where first aid was rendered by Chief Johnson and John Rees.

MEXICAN IS CUT IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

An unidentified Mexican was cut about the face with flying glass when the machine in which he was riding with Manuel Villalobas, 1306 West Third street, collided with an automobile driven by E. L. Winterbourne, 1419 West Washington avenue, at Eighth and Bristol streets late yesterday afternoon.

Officers Sherwood and Adams made an investigation of the accident and filed a report at the police station.

The Mexican was taken to a physician's office for medical treatment, it was reported.

Zabel is a past state president of the organization.

HEAD REFEREE IN DISSOLUTION CASE

H. M. Head, Santa Ana attorney, was apopinted today by Superior Judge Homer G. Ames to act as referee in bringing about an accounting and dissolution of partnership between George Sunbury and N. W. Hunter.

FREE MEXICAN OF CHARGE OF MURDER INTENT

What appeared to be a serious offense, that of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder, charged to Pedro Alquin, Mexican, of West Fifth street, Santa Ana, really was nothing more than a foot race in which age triumphed over youth, according to evidence brought out in the preliminary examination of Alquin in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning.

After the evidence was heard, Alquin was freed.

The felony charge was brought against Alquin after he was accused of chasing Jose Hernandez with a butcher knife in the neighborhood of Alquin's home. The chase extended for a distance of 300 yards, it was said, and Hernandez, a much older man than Alquin, left the defendant so far behind that the knife never came close to Hernandez, it was shown.

The argument between the two men arose when Hernandez went to the Alquin home to collect money for chili peppers which Hernandez said Alquin had purchased from him. Attorney D. G. Wettlin represented Alquin and gained a dismissal of the case without placing the defendant on the stand.

POSSESSION OF WINE RESULTS IN $500 FINE

Clifton LeRoy Miller, Cypress, thought it was all right to have 150 gallons of wine stored in his barn, provided the wine was used for home consumption, but his theory did not coincide with that of Justice Kenneth Morrison, who fined him $500 this morning when Miller was given a hearing on a charge of possession of liquor.

Justice Morrison suspended $250 of the fine for three years and Miller paid the balance.

The wine was uncovered by Sheriff's Officers Howard, Humiston and Carter, yesterday afternoon, when a raid was conducted at the Miller home.

The liquor was found in three 50-gallon barrels and was brought to the sheriff's office, where it will be destroyed.

S. A. PLAYERS SECURE USE OF YOST SPURGEON

Yost's Spurgeon street theater will be the setting for Santa Ana Community plays of the season of 1928-29, according to announcement made last night by Robert L. Brown, business manager of the Players' association, addressing the members at the first meeting of the season in The Barn.

The popular Barn, located on Mabury street, south of East Fourth street, was rendezvous for an unusually large crowd of Players last night and many newcomers were noted, offering encouragement to the belief that the association is embarking on a year that will be marked by an outstanding success from both entertainment and financial standpoints. Much interest was manifested in Brown's announcement regarding a theater, as that has been one of the puzzles which the business manager and financial committee have been called upon to solve.

H. B. Van Dien, vice president of the association, conducted the meeting and speakers included Sam Hurwitz, who asked for support in the form of sustaining memberships; Miss Edith Cornell and Mrs. Franklin H. Williams, who have [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] to be presented.

Miss Cornell, as Barn chairman, had charge of last night's entertainment, which included the reading of an amusing burlesque, "Noctes Ambrosiac," and several numbers by a quartet from the Cantando club.

"Noctes Ambrosiac" recently appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, and parts taken were "Herman Trefusis Berkle," Warren Fletcher; "Ethlwyn Grimble Klopper," Terry Stephenson jr., "Mrs. Melanie Mallow," Mrs. F. H. Williabs; "Arthur Hodwick," Jack Baker; "Gladysse Wyvil," Mildred Snyder; "Redlow Rapp" Wylie Carlyle; "Helenka Stuffos Fillimore," Gladys Simpson Shafer, and the role of the parrot, by Miss Katherine Lucas.

Cantando club members adding so greatly to the program were Messrs. Dwight Hayden, Warren Fletcher, Charles Wollaston and Orlo Householder. Mrs. Harry Brackett acted as accompanist.

HE COMPLAINED ABOUT FOOD SO WIFE ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Edgar E. Ewing, of Huntintgton Beach, accused his wife of buying inferior eggs, butter, bread and coffee for him, Mrs. Pearl G. Ewing pointed out in a divorce complaint filed today. She did not explain her husband's standard for judging the quality of the food.

At about the same time this alleged charge was made against her, Ewing broke a bed light hanging over his wife's head, showering her with broken glass, she stated.

On Dec. 8, 1923, her husband was drunk and he drove Mrs. Ewing out of their home in her night gown, locking the door after her she declared, pointing out that she was forced to spend the rest of the night in a neighbor's house.

Ewing moved his personal belongings from their home last March and took up his residence in his office, where he has lived ever since, Mrs. Ewing said. According to the complaint, they were married in San Francisco, in 1908. A property settlement has been made, Mrs. Ewing said, and an agreement provides that minor children of the couple shall be in her custody, with the privilege of visiting their father, she pointed out. She is represented by Charles D. Swanner, Santa Ana attorney.

J. C. STUDENTS HAVE NEED OF WINTER WORK

Help wanted.

If that sign were posted at Santa Ana junior college, the chances are that the one posting it would be in danger of lifeand limb in the stampede that would result, so few are the jobs for college students, and so many the requests for work on the part of the ambitious young people, according to George B. Holmes, who, as head of the commercial and bookkeeping departments at the college, is also the fount of vocational information.

And it is to Holmes that ambitious students turn when they wish to secure work to help pay their expenses while getting an education. Usually there are scores of home-owners, or housewives, or young mothers, or busy men with gardens and no time to work them, besieging the college heads for students who would be willing to exchange their spare time and strength, for room and board in a private home. But this year, the opposite holds true.

There are any number of active and capable students, who would be only too glad to offer their services in a home, in return for room and board. The girls will prepare the evening meals, wash dishes, aid in housework, care for babies and young children, leaving the parents free to go out of evenings. The young men will mow lawns, care for gardens, keep up automobiles, or drive them—in fact, there is no honest labor that these ambitious youngsters disdain, according to Holmes, providing it yields them what they need—aid in going through their college years.

Yesterday for instance, there were eight applicants for work as an aid to a college career—and not one application for workers. So in an effort to aid the students in solving the problem of "How to get through college on nothing a year," Holmes has appealed to Santa Ana home-folk. If you have lawns to care for, cars to wash, dinners to cook, dishes to wash, children to spank, telephone Holmes at 306 and let him send a brisk and sreezy young collegian out to your home, to occupy the cozy room left vacant when Aunt Jane went back to Kentucky, and assume your burdens for you in return for "an orange and a few kind words."

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

LAUNDRY WINS IN FIGHT FOR RECONVEYANCE

The Economy Laundry company, of Anaheim which recently brought court action against the First National Laundries corporation, of Los Angeles, claiming that the defendant, through misrepresentation, had induced the Anaheim concern to sell out, had won a stipulated judgment today, providing for a reconveyance of the property.

It had been alleged that L. A. Wagner, agent for the defendant concern, had told the plaintiffs that the 3200 shares of First National Laundry stock, for which they sold out, were worth $10 each, that he had told them the Los Angeles concern had $70,000 in its treasury and would assume and pay the Economy laundry's debts.

Later, however, the plaintiff discovered that these alleged statements were in error, the complaint said. The reconveyance was asked on that ground.

Harry Bechtold, president; Sadie Bechtold, secretary, and T. L. McFadden, of the board of directors of the Economy Laundry company, were named in the complaint as plaintiffs.

1700 JARS OF FRUIT RECEIVED FOR VETERANS

The annual fruit and jelly drive, conducted last week by the Santa Ana unit of the American Legion auxiliary, netted between 1700 and 1800 jars, worth approximately $625, according to a report of the drive made at the meeting of the auxiliary last night, in the Legion hall.

A vote of thanks was given to the housewives of Santa Ana who generously contributed from their shelves for the benefit of disabled ex-service men. There were approximately 85 persons who made contributions.

Announcement was made that the unit would clothe one of the children at the [illegible] home for veterans' children during the school year. There are now seven children in the home, it was stated.

Agnes Marshall and Ruth Jellus, Santa Ana, were initiated as new members last night.

The report of the auxiliary's glee club activities in Stockton was made by various members who were present. The glee club was the only one of its kind at the convention and high honors were given it by Legion men throughout the state. Plans now are under way to send the club to the national convention, in San Antonio, October 8 to 11.

Gentlemen:

Do you dread to be alone with the coffee problem?

By Mary Dowd Reardon
Noted Food Engineer

A MAN CAN make good coffee! Anybody can! And it's as easy as A.B.C. Give yourself a fair chance to "make good" and you'll be more than satisfied with the result.

Use coffee you can depend on for flavor and quality. Folger's is my choice. Its blend is unusually delightful and it's always just the same.

Be sure your coffee pot is clean and measure out the water and coffee as here suggested. This method brings out the full richness of Folger-Flavor and you'll find new pleasure in the breakfast cup.

Try This Little Test

Buy a can of Folger's Coffee today. Drink Folger's tomorrow morning; the next morning drink the coffee you have been using; the third morning drink Folger's again. You will then decidedly favor one brand or the other. The Best Coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it?

Many compositions by Director Cianfoni will be featured, including a new, especially appropriate song, "The City of Music," to be sung for the first time by Robert Bradford, Santa Ana baritone.

This song has been composed in anticipation that it may become widely popular throughout the country and will add unique interest to the attractive, well-chosen program now being planned for the final concert of the summer season.

Arrange Funeral For Mrs. Knight

NEWPORT BEACH, Sept. 7.—Friends of Mrs. Gertrude Knight, 53, wife of Frank Knight of this city, were saddened today to learn of her death at the Knight apartments in Balboa yesterday. Mrs. Knight and her husband are among the pioneers of the Balboa district. The family has resided here for the past 15 years.

Her death followed a short illness. She had just returned from a vacation trip in the mountains. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Smith and Tuthill funeral parlors in Santa Ana.

NEW BOOTERIE TO BE OPENED HERE SATURDAY

R. T. Moore, formerly of Long Beach, announced today that the opening of the Studio Booterie here would be held tomorrow. Moore will be manager of the new enterprise.

The Studio Booterie will open for business Saturday morning at the location formerly occupied by Mandel's shoe shop, at 406 North Main street, with a new and complete line of distinctive footwear for women and misses.

According to Moore the footwear will be exceptionally 'smart' in every way and while appealing to the better class of trade, will be popularly priced. "These beautiful slippers," said Moore, "are copies of models especially designed for famous movie stars by a well known Hollywood designer and are identical in every way. The Studio Booterie will specialize on and feature these particular models, as the name signifies."

The Studio Booterie will celebrate the grand opening on two days, Saturday and Monday, opening at 8 a. m., and closing at 9 p. m., on each day.

VACANCIES ON LAGUNA WATER BOARD FILLED

LAGUNA BEACH, Sept. 7—Vacancies created on the Laguna Beach County Water District board of directors when James B. Neel and George Johnston resigned were filled this week by the appointment of City Clerk G. W. Prior and John L. Brickels, former councilman to the positions.

Though the vacancies have existed for several weeks, the absence of Mayor Frank B. Champion, a member of the board, made it impossible to hold a meeting.

Since the city was incorporated, the water board, as it is usually termed, has had a preponderance of city officials, or those who had previously served in some capacity. At present it consists of Joseph R. Jahraus, Thomas A. Cummings and John L. Brickels, former councilman; Frank B. Champion, mayor, and G. B. Prior, city clerk. James B. Neel, resigned, was city treasurer, and George Johnston was a member of the council.

W. V. Thompson, who has been superintendent, has resigned. The position of superintendent was discontinued, and the work of the office divided among others in the water department. David Kerr was made foreman.

500 GROWERS EXPECTED AT WALNUT MEET

Plans were completed today for the eighth annual meeting tomorrow, of the Walnut Growers of Southern California to be held in the Anaheim union high school auditorium. The session will open at 9:30 a. m, and over 500 growers from the southern part of the state are expected to be in attendance.

The meeting will be under the auspices of the Southern California Farm bureau and farm advisors' offices. Important discussions of the handling and harvesting of this year's walnut crop will be held in the morning. There will also be a report on the outlook for this year's market.

In the afternoon a field tour and inspection of the groves of Sam Kraemer and M. L. Hall, of Placentia, will be made. W. D. Hooper, specialist from the California agricultural extension service, will discuss the use of harvesting machinery in the walnut industry. The talk will follow demonstration of the machinery in the groves.

AS far back as she could remember, even when years of actual penury were on them, Alicia's environment had been what you might call "genteel." Her mother had been a well-born gentlewoman and her father assistant professor of mathematics in a small woman's college. After his death, Alicia and her mother had struggled through years of poverty on a penshionship that was barely enough for one to live on, much less two. Following her mother's death even the pension ceased, but by that time Alicia was old enough to earn her own living at the genteel occupation of tutoring.

Her education, however, had been too limited, what with the death of her father, to carry her very far along in the teaching world, so even before Alicia was twenty she had started on what was to be a long apprenticeship at the not-enviable role of "companion" to elderly ladies.

For three years she had lived in a tall, austere house, alone with an old spinster who had finally died and left her a string of mother-of-pearl beads.

After that, through the kindly agency of an old friend of her deceased father, Alicia was engaged as companion to a wealthy elderly woman, who lived in New York the greater part of the time, where she might better supervise the disposition of some of her late husband's millions in behalf of a great research foundation which he had endowed by a codocil in his will.

For thirteen years, Alicia lived with Mrs. Grimm in an old-fashioned hotel on Madison Avenue.

IT was scarcely the kind of life to keep alive in a girl the spirit of youth and vivacity. At best, there was something about Alicia that was frail and pale as a jonquil. She had pale yellow hair and rather lightish blue eyes and skin of a quite lovely pallor. There was something unobtrusive, even a little shrinking about Alicia. Perhaps that was why she got on so well with the crusty Mrs. Grimm.

She was a long, lean lady with gray hair which she wore in a flat mat on top of her head. About her extremely long and somewhat corduroyed neck she wore a black velvet band with a medallion of her husband in front. She wore a mannish ulster which she had especially woven for her in Scotland and tailored in London.

There was something angular and spinsterlike about the childless Mrs. Grimm. She was precise in her ways; penurious in her spending and secretly resentful that her husband had seen fit, unbeknown to her, to add the codicil to his will which reduced her fortune to some seven million dollars.

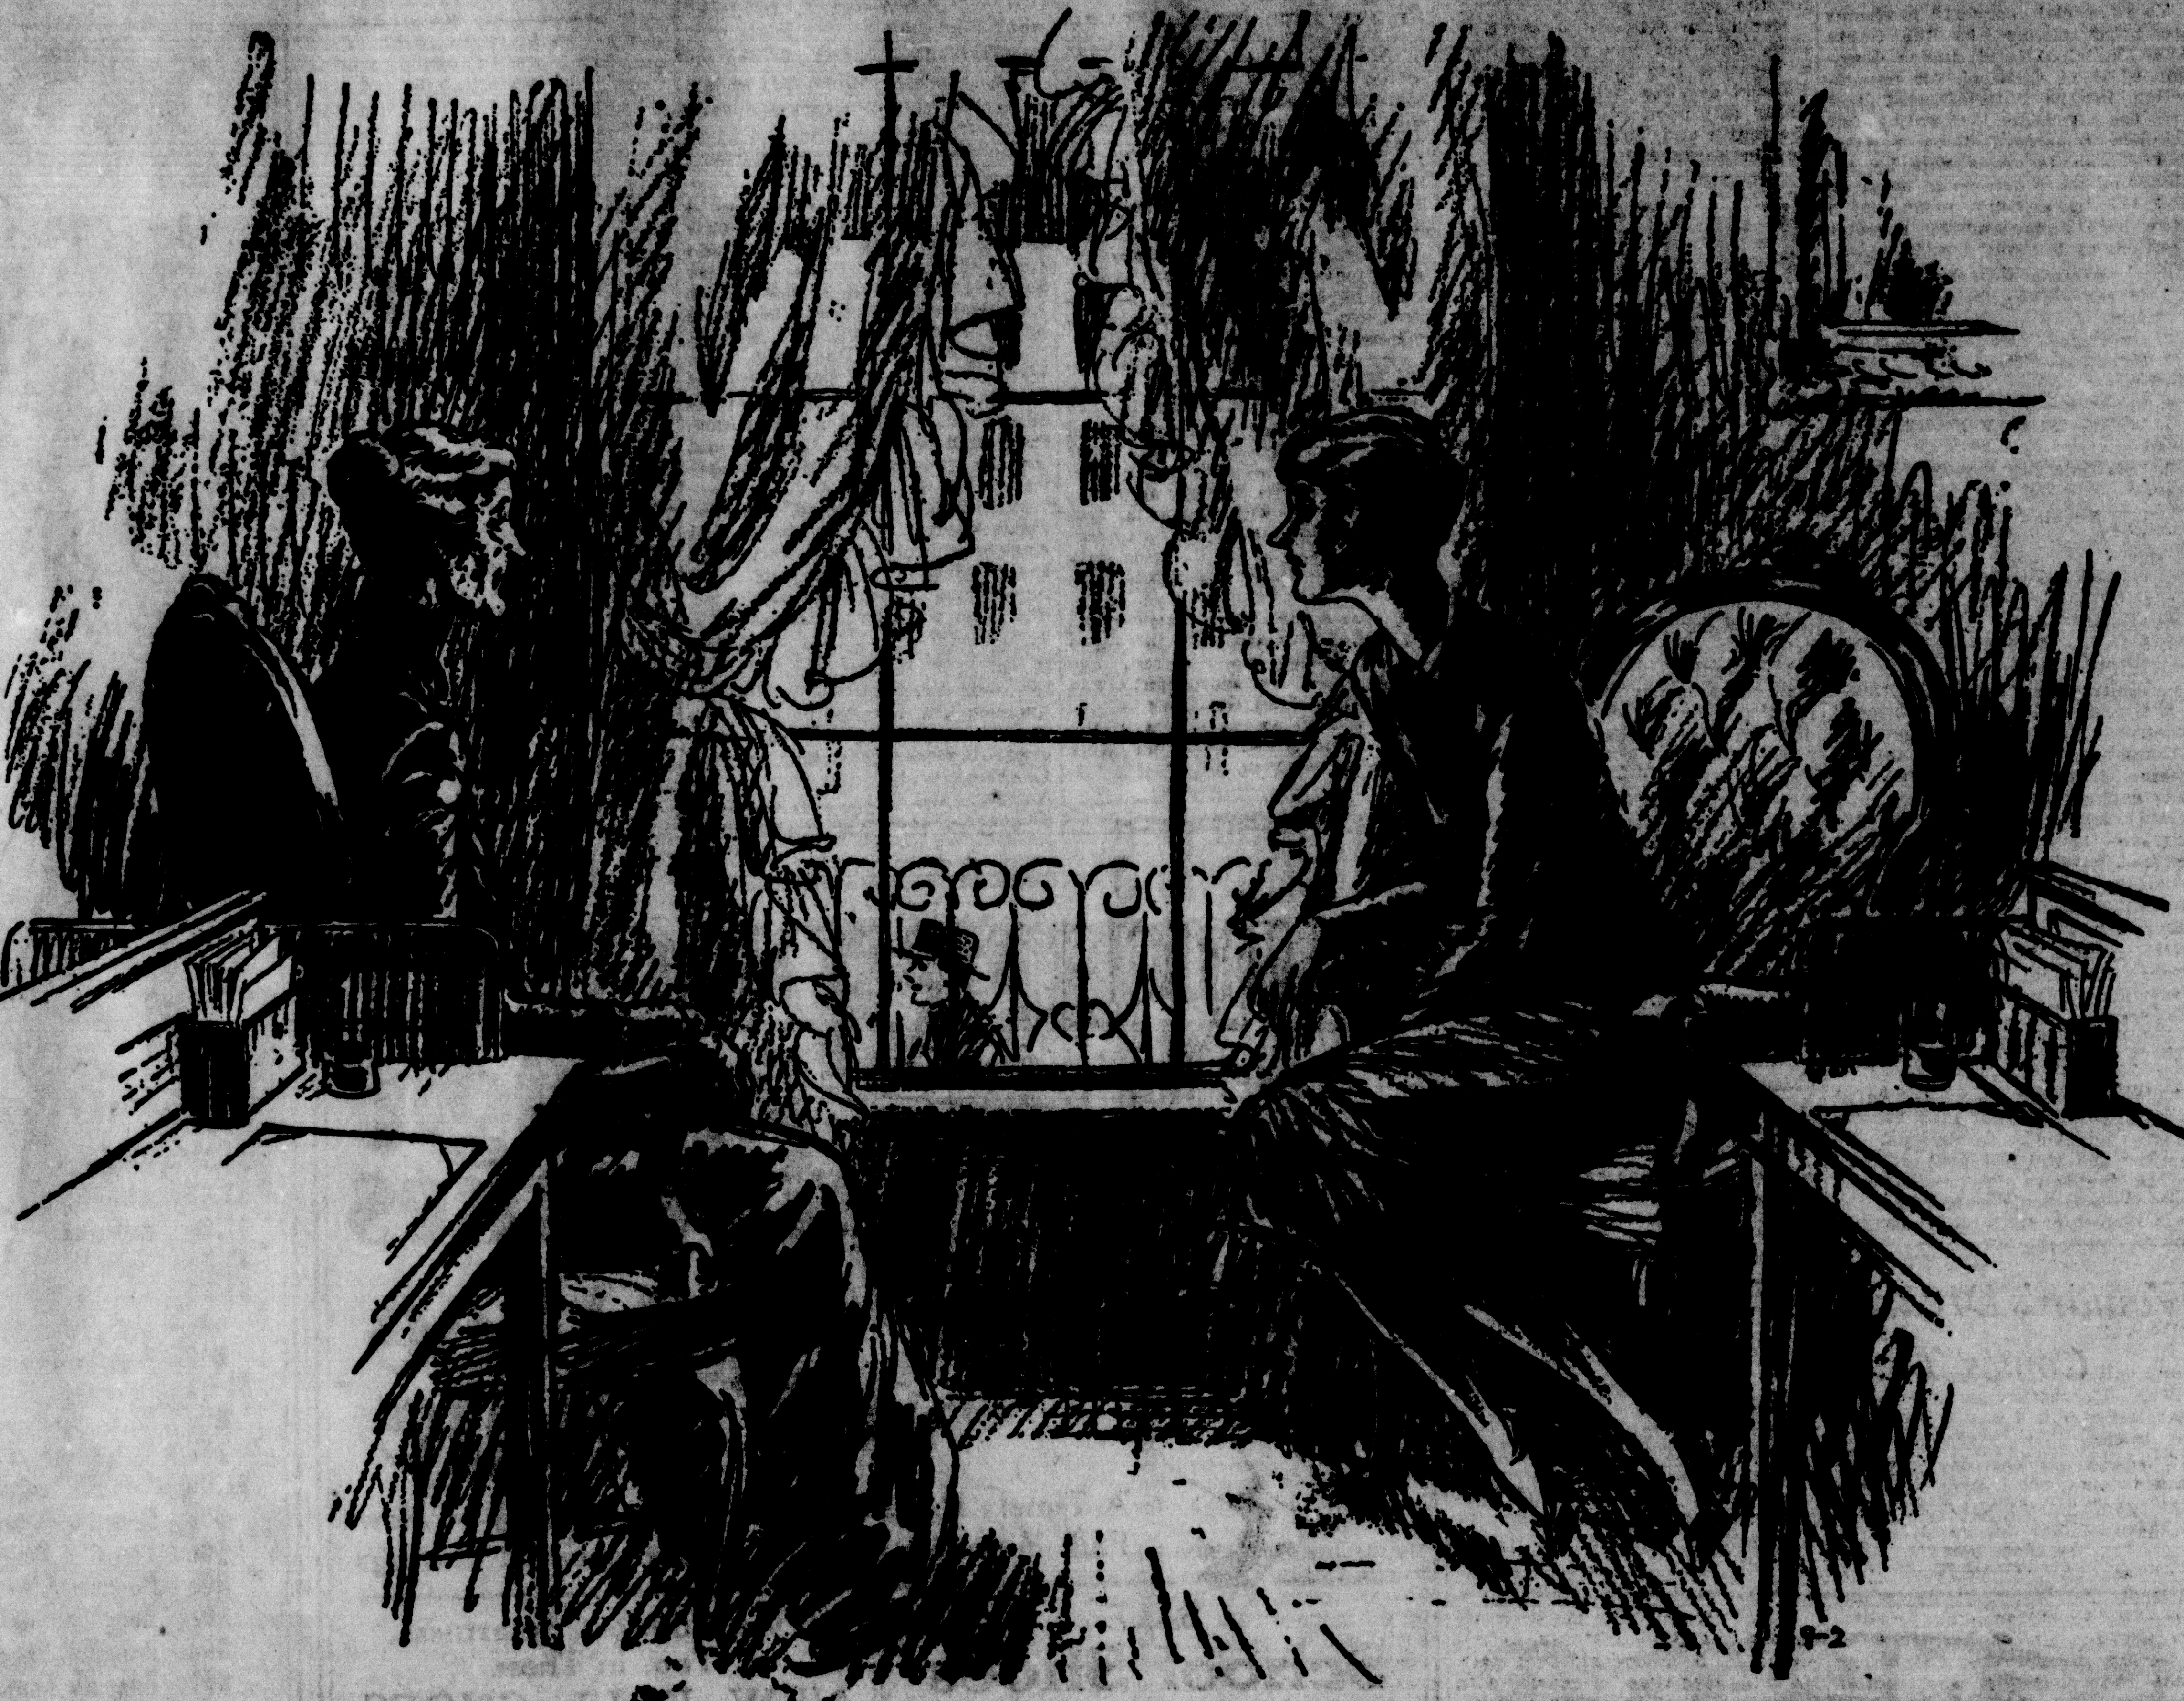
It was rumored among her friends that these seven million dollars were not to be diverted to the Foundation established by her late husband.

It was even stated, on good authority, at the conclusion of Alicia's tenth year with Mrs. Grimm, that Alicia herself was to be beneficiary of a large part of those magnificent holdings.

BE that as it may, there was little in the relationship of these two that would indicate any such benign intention on the part of Mrs. Grimm. She was a querulous and exacting taskmaster. As routinized as her life was, there was never a time when Alicia could feel sure that some vagary would not suddenly present itself.

The rooms which they had occupied in the old hotel were a long, lean, narrow old pair without even the personal touches which can sometimes redeem such lodgings. Alicia slept on a folding davenport in the sitting room. Every morning, at precisely eight o'clock, the two women descended into the stale-smelling, upholstered old dining-room, probably the only one of its kind left in New York, for a breakfast of lumpy porridge, eggs, bacon and coffee.

Each morning, precisely the same performance took place. The harassed old negro waiter was sent scurrying back and forth by Mrs. Grimm because her eggs were too soft or too hard or her porridge too viscuous. Every morning, at half after nine, Alicia dipped a medicine dropper into a bottle of colorless liquid and measured out Mrs. Grimm her six drops of tonic in half a glass of water. Every clear morning at eleven o'clock, Alicia and Mrs. Grimm walked four times around Gramercy Park. On bad mornings they spent this hour seated in the hotel writing-room looking out at pedestrians from the lace-curtained front windows.



They sat in the hotel writing-room looking out at the pedestrians from the lace-curtained front windows.

At one o'clock, Alicia and Mrs. Grimm lunched in the hotel dining-room. The same harassed old waiter scurried back and forth with the various dishes that Mrs. Grimm had rejected and chosen.

At three o'clock, on the days that Mrs. Grimm's lawyer did not come to visit her or send his young assistant, the masseur arrived to give her treatment until five. At five o'clock, Alicia was allowed her blessed hour of respite for walking or whatever time there was left for shopping.

At six o'clock, Mrs. Grimm climbed solemnly into black taffeta and jet festoons and Alicia into black taffeta and jet festoons and they dined in the hotel dining-room, the old waiter scurrying back and forth with the dishes that Mrs. Grimm was forever rejecting and accepting. Then, until nine-thirty, Mrs. Grimm and her companion sat in the hotel drawing room along with a few other cronies of Mrs. Grimm's vintage who were also dwellers of many years in the same hotel. At nine-thirty they retired.

This regime does not include the wear and tear of running to libraries for Mrs. Grimm's choice of light novels or to the shops with bits of silk to match, or scurrying to the druggist for this and that patent medicine and warding off the various charitable organizations that were constantly at Mrs. Grimm's heels for contributions.

SOMETIMES, during those thirteen years, it seemed to Alicia that she simply could not wake up to another day. The business of opening her eyes mornings was like folding back leaden shutters that did not want to open. She hated the color of the mornings that flowed so solemnly into the ugly sitting room where she slept on the davenport. She dreaded the spectacle of Mrs. Grimm with her head wrapped in a veil and her high-necked nightgown clasping her old throat, raising herself in bed to make her demands.

"My teeth!"

There were times when it seemed to Alicia that she must somehow take wing and fly out the window over the housetops—away, away, into some kind of eternity that did not contain the harassing figure of Mrs. Grimm.

BUT, of course, she did nothing of the sort. By the time Alicia was thirty, the little jonquil-like bloom was beginning to go and her feet had become accustomed to the flat, broad shoes that were made for her by Mrs. Grimm's bootmaker; and even her brow wore with resignation the dowdy bird-nest hats that belonged to Mrs. Grimm's era.

But sometimes, secretly within her, Alicia did dare to look a little ahead, even though as these timid thoughts crept out from the dim recesses of her mind they were chased back into their corners.

Was it true, Alicia sometimes dared to ask herself as she lay sleepless on her davenport, that Mrs. Grimm was really to make her heiress to that vast and dormant fortune, with which one could, if one only would, buy happiness and pleasure for so many? Sometimes Alicia even dared visualize to herself what she would do. But in the last analysis, the dream of all those riches meant little to her except freedom. The freedom to be young. She wanted to walk the streets with that firm, young air of destination that characterized the busy, happy-looking young people who flowed past the conservative windows of the conservative hotel she detested.

Sometimes, the young lawyer's assistant who came with documents and papers to be signed, seemed to mock her with his blue eyes as he sat in the stiff sitting room waiting for Mrs. Grimm. He was the only direct contact with youth she had ever known and sometimes she wondered if he had ever regarded her with sufficient interest to recognize her if he should meet her on the street.

IT was when Alicia was thirty-five years old, a little pale and a little more wan and a little more dried than she had been when she was thirty-four, that she did the inexplicable, the unfathomable, the miraculous. One afternoon the rain beat down monotonously against the windows of the hotel rooms, and, apropos of nothing much in particular, Alicia walked out.

There had been do direct occasion for this stupefying act. Just suddenly, rising to her feet, with a polite good-bye to Mrs. Grimm, who was knitting, Alicia knew that irrevocably, finally she was finished.

It was the kind of release that exceeded anything beyond her dreams. It was a release of the spirit. It was a courage which had arisen apparently out of nothing. Up to the very moment that it happened, she was not aware that she was going to do it. It was as stupefying as it was stupendous. Alicia was free.

It was a curious and rather astonishing fact, but Alicia never again laid eyes on Mrs. Grimm. It was as if she had walked out of her smug, self-sufficient, querulous life to another planet.

TWO weeks later, Alicia had a position as saleswoman in a first-rate department store. She had a little room all her own in a lodging-house which she almost immediately diked out in cretonnes and gay little nonsenses out of the Five and Ten-Cent-Store. Out of her first week's salary she bought high-heeled shoes and out of her second, the tightest, the closest little felt hat she could find.

She went to motion-picture theatres and dined in inexpensive tearooms and Chinese restaurants that were done in teakwood and gilt.

One night, walking home from her work on the tall, sharp heels that clicked and with a bright air of destination which she shared with the youth about her, she met the lawyer's assistant and, before she realized it, spoke to him first.

Truly enough, he did not recognize her until she explained herself. But as he told her later, he did not recognize her because she was beautiful.

Every evening, now, the lawyer's assistant walks home from work with Alicia.

[illegible] MEANS BEAUTY, CLAIMS EXPERT

"Beauty and poor health cannot co-mingle. They are as disassociated as oil and water. Before a woman can be beautiful in any sense of the word, she must feel the radiant glow of health. Good health is the only foundation upon which the structure of magnetic personality can be erected. If the "body machine" is not functioning correctly in every detail, no amount of paints and powders can create beauty, which must come from within."

Mme. Chernoff, who will, under the auspices of The Register, start her five-day free lecture course Monday, in the Yost Spurgeon theater, is author of these "health first" thoughts. In her lectures she proves to every woman's satisfaction the correctness of her teachings along this line. She tells simple methods to regain and retain health, the essential to all happiness. Women readers of The Register who have been following her articles daily are thrilled at the opportunity of hearing her in person and learning first hand her wonderful teachings on beauty, health and charm.

Lectures Fascinating

Of such great interest to all women is every part of her every lecture that wherever she has appeared it has been difficult for the women to state which is her most fascinating lecture. There is not a dull moment for any woman in Mme. Chernoff's audience. With a commanding personality, clarity of thought and perfect diction, she delivers her message for pulchritude, giving beauty, health and charm aids that will be used by her listeners to great advantage for years to come.

She speaks with positive authority on many subjects. The variety of them is evidenced in her Tuesday program, which will be as follows:

A. Vocational guidance. Character reading.

B. "Budgets"—"Economy"?

C. Reducing weight (in spots)—ankles, hips and shoulders.

D. Acidosis. Constipation. The correction of these ailments.

E. Care of the feet. How to walk properly.

F. Skin blemishes. Pimples, oily skin, enlarged pores, blackheads.

Mme. Chernoff's last lecture, on Friday of next week, will be one for "women only." She will frankly discuss all problems of a delicate nature. She will answer questions that have been troubling the minds of many women for years.

Question Box

At all of the lectures, Mme. Chernoff will allot a time to answer direct questions from her listeners. For the convenience of those who do not wish to publicly state their question, a "question box" will be provided near the door of the hall and all one need do is to write her question on a slip of paper, unsigned, and drop it in the "question box." Mme.

Chernoff will answer all questions from the platform.

She always tells her listeners to have no hesitancy in asking any question that is troubling them, regardless of how foolish it may seem. She says that it often is the little annoyances and irregularities that cause the greatest grief.

Mme. Chernoff, being a great student of human nature, particularly of her own sex, and having had the opportunity of studying thousands of women and their problems, is well qualified to answer any question and to give constructive, helpful advice.

This Beauty, Health and Charm school is a courtesy to the women readers of The Register and there will be no charge and no obligations, nor will they be asked to purchase anything.

[illegible] LIFE BUOYS SAVED 4 LIVES, BELIEF

LAGUNA BEACH, Sept. 7.—That the life buoys located along the beaches in this city through the efforts of the Red Cross and with money raised by the organization saved at least four lives during the summer, was the assertion made by former Mayor Thomas A. Cummings, a member of the board of directors of the Red Cross branch at a meeting held this week.

All of these lives were saved by using the same torpedo buoy, Cummings said. Other buoys have been used on other beaches, it is reported.

The Red Cross laid plans for its membership drive in November. Mayor Frank B. Champion, present at the meeting, promised to act as general chairman. Other committees were tentatively appointed. Work will be through organizations, chiefly, with booths on the streets to assist in the work. It is hoped that 600 will be enrolled this year. The enrollment last year was 400.

Activities of the Red Cross listed were assistance to needy persons, completion of the assigned quota of six layettes and 10 dresses, installation of equipment for beach safety, and the class in life saving which was conducted in July. In commenting on the latter, stress was laid on the experiences gained and the more effective work that might be done another year.

[illegible] CHILD ARTISTS [illegible] PRESENT PROGRAM

One of the most unique attractions ever brought into this community, will be the appearance here of the world's youngest premier child violinist, Joan [illegible], and her sister Jeanne, called "America's Baby Nightingale." The joint concert presented by them at the First Christian church on Tuesday, September 11, will doubtlessly prove, as usual, a real sensation, owing to the youth and calibre of these little artists.

The brilliant playing of Joan, a mere child of nine years, has excited the commendation of critics and teachers the country over. To hear her play an exhibition number is a revelation they declare. A complete mistress of her instrument, she extracts from her battered old violin all that the master built into it. Genuinely remarkable feature of the child's make-up is her understanding and interpretation of the old masters, plus a magnetic personality.

Jeanne, eight years old, is a dramatic soprano and is acclaimed equally thrilling in her work with her remarkable gift of song combined with drama and languages. She sings with the naturalness of a bird, and her voice has surprising strength. She sings with perfect diction and understanding of [illegible] languages.

Critics pronounce these little maids geniuses, doubly astonishing for the reason that they are sisters. They have performed in many o fthe principal cities of the United States, and press notices bear evidence of the ovations given them. An educator writes, "It is a feast to listen to these marvellous children. Every boy and girl, father and mother, should take advantage of their coming. They are an inspiration to the American youth. They are very young but exhibit a combination of talent, training and possibility many adult artists may well envy."

PLACENTIA, Sept. 7.—Mrs. E. H. Brunemeier was hostess to the Loyal Temperance legion at the regular meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The children spent most of the afternoon drilling for the entertainment which they will give at the W. C. T. U. county convention in Placentia, September 21 and 22 at the Presbyterian church.

After the practice work, Mr. Brunemeier gave a farewell party in honor of Doyle and Roger Harlow, members of the L. T. L., who are leaving for Santa Barbara, where their father is entering the State Teacher's college.

Users of the electricity will be charged only with the amount they used, no cost for the putting in of the system to be charged to the users. GAUER REPORT SHOWS ANAHEIM SCHOOL GROWTH

ANAHEIM, Sept. 7.—The annual report of M. A. Gauer, superintendent of the Anaheim grammar schools, reveals many improvements made during the past year and a number of plans for the future school year.

Among the important purchases of the past year was that of a new school site for the sum of $7,000. The site is located in the southwestern part of the city and contains five acres of ground. A site in the northwestern part of the city was purchased by the board some time ago to take care of expansion in that section at a future date.

Alterations and improvements in the grammar schools were made at a cost of $16,823.71, the report reveals. This sum is $2,973.71 more than was anticipated would be needed.

Beside the two sites mentioned and which are unimproved, the district now owns six improved sites, bought for future needs. The present value of the sites is estimated at $168,212.80 and the present value of the buildings at $868,000. Equipment is valued at $26,884.

When purchased, the sites cost $94,493.40 and when built the outlay on the buildings was $294,827. The present estimate represents the increase in property value.

Future plans for the grammar schools include the establishment of a central school for the sixth grades of the city at the Lincoln school to do away with the necessity of building a new school, the possibility of the formation of a junior high school, more use of visual education, the further development of the work of the Boy and Girl Scout troops in the school and other educational features.

BREA C. OF C. PLANS EVENING GATHERING

BREA,(Sept. 7—Plans for the first evening meeting of the Brea Chamber of Commerce were started at the regular noon meeting of that body yesterday and committees named to arrange for the place of meeting and the entertainment to be offered. The meeting, which will open with a 7 o'clock dinner, is to be held next Wednesday evening.

A half hour talk was given by Capt. Cyrus S. Nusbaum, of Los Angeles. The chamber turned down his proposition of a membership campaign.

Progress is being made in the matter of Brea securing an official garage of the Southern California Automobile club, a communication having been received from the club signifying its willingness to co-operate in the establishment of such a garage if all requirements can be met. To this end a committee was yesterday appointed by the chamber.

ANAHEIM LEAGUE ARRANGES SESSION

ANAHEIM, Sept. 7.—The Girls' league of the Anaheim union high school will entertain other leagues of the district in the near future, it was learned yesterday. The affair will be one of the first big events to be sponsored by this organization and will be a cabinet meeting.

Plans for the activities of the league here were completed at a meeting held this week, when all the women members of the high school faculty were present at a luncheon given in the school cafeteria by the senior girls for their "little sisters."

Mrs. J. A. Clayes, wife of the principal, was a guest of honor. Miss Elizabeth Walker, president of the league, gave a brief talk. Mrs. Faye Kern Schultz, faculty advisor of the league, introduced the members of the faculty.

SUNDAY SCHOOL POWER TOLD BY DR. HAYWOOD

ANAHEIM, Sept. 7—That the Sunday school properly organized and worked, is one of the most potent agencies of the American nation, was the opinion expressed by the Dr. Benjamin S. Haywood, pastor in his annual report given at the yearly home coming meeting of the congregation of the White Temple Methodist church. There was a total enrollment of 825 in the Sunday school last year, he reported.

Dr. Haywood devoted some time to the report of the Sunday school activities of the church and quoted Herbert Hoover as saying recently, "The race moves forward on the feet of little children."

In the past year it was brought out that 87 new members had been added to the church, 36 had been baptized and 78 marriages had taken place. Eight of the congregation passed away in this period of time.

The various church activities include a men's Bible class, two Epworth leagues, a junior church, the Ladies' Aid, the Woman's Foreign society, the Woman's Home Missionary society, a men's Open forum, under the supervision of M. A. Gauer, a vested choir, a community orchestra and several other organizations.

At the business session which followed the report, trustees and stewards of the church were elected. Trustees are as follows: Charles Egyabroad, O. E. Steward, Perry W. Mathis, William Wagner, W. M. Wellman, Edgar C. Kahly, Mrs. J. W. Harpster, Dr. J. L. Beebe, L. H. Hoskis; stewards: Dr. J. W. Harpster, G. M. Tedrick, Harry S. Jayne, J. K. Langdon, H. W. Lewis, S. Rush Coate, A. W. Franzen, Warren Mathis, William S. Price, E. L. Hein, P. C. Curtis, J. D. Eger, Miss Bella Walker, Mrs. W. H. Johnson, M. A. Gauer, Paul H. Damaree, Charles C. Cleveland, A. L. Knipe, Mrs. H. E. Eddy, Evan S. Alsip, Forest F. Twinem, Floyd West, Mrs. G. H. Goodale, Mrs. Frank Machleb, S. P. Seiersen, P. H. Krick, Mrs. Belle Tedrick, C. C. Reinert, D. Lyman Harpster, Henry F. Jackson.

Board of ushers: William Mathis, Will Wagner, J. D. Eger, L. P. Nichols, L. D. Writer, Dr. J. W. Harpster, Carroll Young.

One of the features of the evening's program was the impersonations of the presidential candidates. L. T. Writer gave an impersonation of Al Smith, J. R. Coats who gave an impersonation of Herbert Hoover, Lyman Harpster who gave an impersonation of Charles Curtis and James Lear impersonated Senator Joseph Robinson.

Musical numbers were given by a number of the church societies and individual members. Several hundred persons partook of the dinner which opened the meeting. The dinner was in charge of Mrs. J. K. Langdon and Mrs. Lloyd Puryear.

Call Firemen By Phone, Chief Urges

LAGUNA BEACH, Sept. 7 Because people still seem uncertain as to the proper method of summoning the fire department, Chief Pete Bushman is making an effort to impress on them that the telephone is not only the quickest and easiest but also almost the only method.

When an alarm was sounded one evening this week, it was after Fred Parry, a fireman, had been told by John Arscott, service station man, that someone was at the fire house yelling for firemen. Parry telephoned to the telephone operator and the alarm was promptly sounded. But the excited citizen had meanwhile broken in, only to find that he was helpless after getting in.

EUROPE JAUNT EXPENSES TOLD ROTARY GROUP

ORANGE, Sept. 7.—Carl Leonard of the Anaheim Rotary club told members of the Orange organization how to see Europe in an economic way in a talk he gave at the regular weekly luncheon meeting here yesterday.

Leonard, former mayor of Anaheim and until recently councilman of that city, has just returned from a four months' trip to Europe which he made in company with his wife and daughter. In a trip made last year Leonard told the Rotarians, his expenses were about $5000. On this trip he was gone about two months.

Profiting by his past experience, Leonard traveled about Europe for the four months just past and his expenses, including those of himself, wife and daughter were about $1200 less even with the addition of his daughter to the party on this year's trip.

Anyone can see Europe for about $8.50 a day, Leonard declared, and he said it cost nearly that amount at home.

The chairman of the day was Ed Chapman and Arch Burkett acted as president in the absence of Fred Alden.

NEWBERT DISTRICT ACQUIRES DREDGER

TALBERT, Sept. 7.—A large dredger, with a 65-foot boom, has been purchased by the directors of the Newbert Protection district for work on the portion of the Santa Ana river under the Newbert district's control.

The dredger, which is in charge of Harry Harper, engineer, has been tried out an dis now employed on the east bank of the river, just south of Fifth street, where a curve in the bank is being cut out to prevent the turning of the water into the west bank at that point during high water.

Meetings of both the Newbert Protection and Talbert drainage districts, were held this week but no special business was transacted by the Talbert district on account of the absence of Earl Gardner, one of the directors.

A new dredger for the Talbert drainage district has been proposed as the old dredger is reported wearing badly.

SAPPHIRE WEEK IS OBSERVED BY JEWELRY SHOPS

ANAHEIM, Sept. 7.—Jewelers of the city are placing their sapphires in advantageous positions in their showcases on the first week of the month dedicated to this precious stone.

"Do people whose birthdays fall in September really like sapphires? Yes, they certainly do," said one dealer. "Maybe they have been educated to like them but the jewel is popular with these folks. Yes, I think we sell more of them during this month than in any other month of the year.

"Nearly everyone who is buying a jewel gives the matter of a birthstone a little thought no matter how practical they are. The only birthstone that seems to be unpopular is the sardonyx, which is supposed to bring the August morn good fortune."

The sapphire is one of the most beautiful of jewels, another jeweler declared. The true uncolored sapphire is corn blue and the best ones are from Siam, Burmah, although numbers of them are found in the United States and in Australia.

"For all the year around popularity, the ruby is the most popular gem," said another jeweler, "although of course we often sell birthstones for people who believe in their good luck virtue.

Uses Fan As He Tells About Heater

ORANGE, Sept. 7—The champion optimist is the salesman who made canvass of the business houses here yesterday in an attempt to sell electric heaters. With indomitable courage the man entered business places mopping his brow and fanning himself with his hat while he explained the marvelous amount of heat his heaters produced.

TALBERT LAND QUITCLAIMED BY TEXAS COMPANY

TALBERT, Sept. 7.—An oil and gas lease taken early in the summer on the 20 acres owned by M. C. Hoeptner, north and west of Talbert by the Texas Oil company has been quit-claimed by the company to the owner.

The Hoeptner property is located due south of the Prairie well, which was abandoned on the Price lease recently. Other companies have since quit-claimed on leases at the expiration of first payments since the abandonment of the well. Several other rentals have expired with the Texas company north and east of the Hoeptner property, and no move has been made by the company to pay further rental but the deeds have not been returned so far, it is understood.

BIG MEN EAT BIG

Old Jack Scott is back in the major leagues with his great appetite and there are some observers unkind enough to predict that big Jack will eat himself right back into the minor leagues.

Scott has been called on twice by John McGraw to help him out in a great emergency and he usually delivers in the great emergencies, but when the emergencies have passed he always has gone back to eight hours' hard work at the table.

Scott is not the only ball player who has distinguished himself as a great eater.

The Babe nearly hot-dogged himself out of baseball. Ping Bodie held the world's record for inhaling spaghetti by the furlong. Fred Toney was one of the best workmen in the world in the dining room and Gene Robertson's passion for a banquet breakfast in bed almost ruined his major league career.

RIP WAS THE CHAMP

But Mark Roth, traffic manager of the New York Yankees, says there never was a ball player who could eat as well and as long at a sitting as "Rip" Collins did with the New York club.

"Rip" passed on from the Yankees to the Detroit Tigers and passed on elsewhere from Detroit.

"With my own eyes," Roth says, "I once saw 'Rip' sit down for a breakfast. He had everything on the bill and finished up with two steaks. And, strike me dead if I am telling an untruth, the check was seven dollars."

JUST A SWELL BOY

Some kind of a great prize or a magnificent citation should be given to Bob King, the Stanford athlete, who won the Olympic high jumping championship.

King was one of the few American athletes who distinguished himself at Amsterdam and when he returned to this country he was treated as a hero by the reception committee.

'It was nice to win, of course," King said. "But I wasn't the best jumper in three and I shouldn't have won. The champion jumper was the Filipino, Toribio. He's the greatest natural jumper I ever saw, but he never has been taught how to use his great natural ability. If he had had a little good coaching before he went to the games he would have outjumped all of us."

GIBSON THINKS 'MADNESS' AGE GONE FOR GOOD

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Boxing, greatest of all bonanzas during the rapidly expiring golden age of sport, is entering its inevitable era of re-adjustment in which fighters, no matter who they are, will be paid strictly according to their value and fights, no matter what they are, will be well to retail their choicest seats at better than $15.

Billy Gibson, soldier of fortune for 25 years in a game in which snipping never knows a closed season, thus served warning on the Loughrans, Sharkeys, Hansens, Riskos, Heeneys and others who seek the vacated heavyweight championship and the pot of gold supposedly at rainbow's end. The pot still is there, but he thinks the gold has turned to brass and mostly knuckles, at that.

The last fortune has been made by the Rickards, the Kearnses and other overnight opportunists, Gibson avers. The last big purse has been offered; the last big gate achieved. There may be another million dollar house but Gibson doesn't expect to see it.

Dempsey Killed It

The phenomen of American madness died with Dempsey, in the opinion of this boxing man who made and re-made successive fortunes in his "racket" and finally produced champions in two major classes in such a manner as to make them appear greater than they really were.

"I think the million dollar gate is only a memory now because it isn't reasonable to look for a return of the circumstances that made it possible," Gibson declared. "In the first place, we had Dempsey, an unusual man.. He combined great showmanship with an ability to fight and you don't get many like that.

"In the second place, he appeared during an unusual period—right after the war when the public had become accustomed to paying big prices and had the money to pay for them, too. It would be a miracle to get another such man as Dempsey at another such time; and I feel that only a combination of the three—a great showman, a great fighter and a period of great prosperity—could bring back the million dollar matches.

Sullivan Like Jack

"Sullivan was the last great champion of the Dempsey type. But he wasn't fortunate enough to live in such an era. Jeffries was popular but he wasn't a showman. Perhaps, if we could get another Sullivan, another Dempsey or even another Jeffries in the next year or so, we might have another flurry in high finance. For that sort of thing doesn't die abruptly. It passes out gradually but, once having passed, is gone for good."

The writer suggested, in view of these assertions, that Dempsey, therefore, stood as the redeemer of progress, civilization, mankind in general and the million dollar gate.

"Not a chance," quoth Mr. Gibson without hesitation. "You forget that Dempsey no longer has the combination I am talking about. He still has the showmanship, the appeal. He might even catch some of the ebb tide of dollars that still are floating around without a home, if he had the third part of the combination. But he hasn't. He is a ll washed up as a fighter and most of the fans know it.

"I think one of the main reasons he has retired is that he knows he can't get the money any more."

Just what the other main reasons might be, the writer didn't trouble to inquire, knowing full well that there are only three reasons for a fighter doing anything. They are, namely, reading rapidly from left to right,—money, money and money.

LATZO, LOMSKY IN RETURN GO TONIGHT

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—One of the clasic fights of the light heavyweight division—a 10-round bout between Pete Latzo, of Scranton, and Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, is scheduled for tonight. They are two of the leading challengers for Tommy Loughran's crown. Their previous fight was a tough affair.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Chet Chadbourne, Pacific Coast league outfield veteran, today aspires to the role of umpire. With 15 years of activity on the diamond behind him, Chadbourne has filed an application foran umpire's position with Harry Williams, president of the Pacific Coast league.

14 Wrigley Mermen To Get $2500

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 7.—Georges Michel of France, and Ernst Vierkoetter, of Germany, the last men to be dragged from the icy watersof Lake Ontario in the incompleted $35,000 Wrigley marathon swim, today described themselves as "indignant and disgusted" at the prize distribution, and announce dthat they were through forever with professional swimming.

Their indignation was caused by the fact that although they remained in the water longer than any other contestant, and covered more distance, they received no larger share of the prize money. The 14 swimmers who made the best showingall got $2500.

YANKEES JINX 'LEFTY' GROVE, BIG MACK ACE

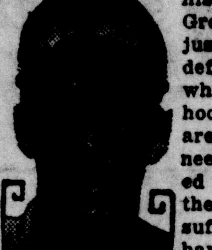
By BILLY EVANS

The inability of Pitcher "Lefty" Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics to beat the New York Yankees may cost Connie Mack's club the pennant. Since the opening of the 1928 season Babe Ruth and Company have been a terrible jinx to the great Grove.

Only the other day Grove registered his twentieth victory of the season. That, in itself, is quite an achievement in these days of the lively ball. Seldom do more than three or four big league hurlers annually turn the trick.

No Help from Yankees

In winning 20 games for the Philadelphia Athletics, Grove has received no help from the Yanks. The slugging aggregation, chaperoned by Manager Miller Huggins, has been poison for the tall southpaw of the A's. As a matter of fact, only Grove's failure to enjoy just ordinary success against the world champs, has kept him from having one of the most remarkable years ever recorded in the big show.



"Lefty" Grove

While scoring his 20 games, Grove has lost just six. And, to definitely prove what a horrible hoodoo the Yanks are to Grove, it need only be stated that five of the six defeats suffered by Grove have been at the hands of the Yanks. He has beaten that club only once in six starts. Eliminate the five defeats suffered by Grove against the Yanks and his record for the year is 20 wins against one loss, which is some record.

Big Test Just Ahead

However, the big test is just ahead for Grove. In four short days, he will have a chance to wipe out a season of failure against the Yankees. If he delivers, it may mean a pennant for the Athletics, something for which Connie Mack has been striving for since 1914.

Every tight pennant race has its one or more crucial series. One month ago there wasn't anything tight about the American league race. The Yanks enjoyed such a commanding lead, that the rest of the field seemed distanced. Then things began to happen and a lead of more than a dozen games has been cut down and the Yanks are fighting to stay on top.

Four games still to be played between New York and Philadelphia loom as the series that will more or less decide the American league pennant struggle. If the Athletics could make a clean sweep of the series, it would be a body blow to the Yankees. It is really necessary that the Mackmen take three of the four games if the club is to remain in the running. An even split in the series would be all in favor of New York.

What Will Connie Do?

Grove has been beating all clubs other than New York with such ridiculous ease that Manager Mack may tempt fate by starting him in the first and fourth games of

CARRIES U. S. BURDEN AGAINST ARGENTINE

All the promise of a pitching duel between Johnson and Mathewson; a match between Jim Thorpe and "Red" Grange or a fight between Dempsey and Sullivan. That's what the polo riding battle between Tommy Hitchcock and Louis Lacey in the impending United States-Argentine series holds.

M'HUGH'S PLAY FEATURES GOLF AT DEL MONTE

DEL MONTE, Cal., Sept. 7.—A great golfer from the Northwest and a smiling, confident champion were due to furnish the thrills today in the third round of the California amateur championship flight at Pebble Beach.

Johnnie McHugh, defending titlist, and lanky "Chuck" Hunter, of Tacoma, runner-up in last year's tournament, were paired in what promises to be the feature match of the tourney.

McHugh, who has been growing steadily better since his poor start in the qualifying round, has weeded out opposition like clockwork during the past three days. Yesterday he eliminated Bill Jelliffe, who looked like a champion during the first flight of the qualification play, 5 and 4.

Hunter, on the other hand, has been unsteady during the match play and was forced to go an extra hole to win by a stroke from Heinie Schmidt, of Oakland, yesterday.

Yesterday's surprise was the elimination of medalist Jack Gaines of San Francisco, by John G. Williams, of Santa Barbara, young college star. Williams went through Gaines

International Polo Series Will Be Featured By Hitchcock, Lacey

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

The Davis cup is gone. The Olympic championship is held by a none too glorious margin of victory. International golf supremacy is maintained by a group of stars in their prime and foreign nations become more of a threat on every other field of sport.

Out of the far south there now ride into prominence four horsemen from the Argentine to challenge almost age-long supremacy of the United States on the polo field and the nation has called upon Tommy Hitchcock, the roughest riding and hardest hitting polo pony rider in the world.

Will Duel With Lacey

There will be three other men with Captain Tommy, of course, but the heavy burden of organizing and leading the attack will fall upon his broad and capable shoulders. And in the role as the big ace of the Americans, Hitchcock will have to fight an individual duel with Louis Lacey, the big star of the South American four and Hitchcock's only rival for the title of the world's greatest player.

It is certain that there will be enough competition to force Hitchcock to his greatest heights, and his friends say that the occasion never has presented itself in the past where he was forced to throw off

CLUBMEN LOSE TO SHELL OIL TEAM, 10 TO 8

The Auto Club of Orange County, undisputed champions of the first half of the Santa Ana Twilight league, went tumbling down to its fourth defeat of the second half yesterday, falling before the dangerous Shell Oil company troupe, 10 to 8, in a game that went only five innings.

An eight run rally in the fourth gave the Royal Dutchmen victory, Earl Jones, the Auto Club heaver, being unable to hold off the determined challenge of the oilmen. Sturgis, Hayden, Beattie, Miller and Dorman all hit safely in the frame, Dorman's contribution being a home run. Hayden got three bingles during the contest.

Lloyd Hixon, toiling for the winners, was not hit hard but wildness put him in the hole in every inning but the third.

The Twilight league's regular season will be completed today when the City Hall tangles with the Santa Ana Daily Register. The Scribes need only a win to assure themselves, at the worst, of a tie for first place.

Kinslows In Forfeit Win From Fords

One more team, Dunton's Fords checked in at the Santa Ana City league finish line today and disbanded their ball club, glad that the long summer season was over.

The Fordmen, forfeiting before they started because they had to use ineligible players to make up a full side, lost to Kinslow's Machine shop, 8 to 6, in a featureless finale in the Bowl last night. The attendance again was sparse.

Several postponed encounters now are the only City league games left on the local night baseball schedule.

STRIBLING IN QUICK VICTORY OVER SQUIRES

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Young Stribling of Georgia is back in the fistic limelight, standing out today as one of the leading contenders for the heavyweight championship of the world.

The Southern boy's victory over Johnny Squires, of South Africa, in two rounds at Madison Square Garden last night went a long ways towards restoring him to the good graces of fickle New York fandom. Squires could offer little opposition, the South African proving quite as horizontal as any of the British heavyweights. Stribling's demeanor in the ring 'and his businesslike way of finishing off his opponent were a pronounced improvement over some of his previous performances.

Down Twice in First

Squires went down twice in the first round, once from exhaustion and again from a savage left hook to the jaw. He was virtually out on his feet when the bell saved him.

In the second round, Stribling went to work with a vengeance and quickly had the South African helpless, Referee Louis Magnolia stopping the fight after 44 seconds to save Squires from unnecessary punishment.

Stribling weighed 181 1-4, and looked fit at the weight. He seems to have improved his attack, and displayed an effective line of jabs, hooks, uppercuts and a devastating straight right which seldom missed.

Rest of Card Indifferent

The rest of the card included some of the most indifferent heavyweight boxers ever gathered together in one ring. Their total weight was something over a ton, but their value as championship prospects was nil.

George Hoffman, the former amateur champion, knocked out Jack Dessimos, of Montreal, in the fourth round of one of the preliminaries, and looked about the best of a mediocre lot.

Jake Warren, Chicago Negro, won on a foul from Paul Swiderski when the Syracuse boxer struck his opponent while the Negro was on the floor. Gene Baker, of Johnstown, Pa., knocked out Johnny Krieger, of Jersey City, in the first round; Big John Erickson, of Minneapolis, outpointed Charley Wepner of Ridgefield, N. J., and Marvin Schechter, of Boston, won a close decision from Marco Polo, of Pittsburgh.

OLD RIVALS IN LAST MEETING OF YEAR HERE

Two old night baseball enemies, Santa Ana and Anaheim, meet for the third and last time of the 1928 season here tonight for no reason at all except to give fickle fandom some healthy entertainment. They go to the post at the usual hour, 8 o'clock. It will cost 25 centimes to get a chair.

Santa Ana goes into the struggle with everything to lose and little to gain.

Having beaten Anaheim for the Orange County league crown and having won the amateur championship of Southern California, the team risks some of its prestige by taking on one of its victims. But a champion isn't much of a champion if he won't take a chance and you'll have to hand it to the Stars—they do have stomach.

A fair representation of fans is expected although the rush, of course, won't be anything like it was for the previous "big shots" at the Bowl or like it will be a week from this evening when Pirrone's Nite Hawks, pro rulers of the district, engage the Stars here.

"Specs" Snow, the smooth party who runs the locals on the field and does such things as make out batting orders and lineups, indicated today that he would start the usual battery boys, Glenn Stockbridge and "Eeny" Wilcox. "Wicked Will" Cole will be at first base, George Preble second, "Listerine" Hill at third and "Doctor" Smith at shortstop. Randolph Bell, Orville Schuchardt and Wayne Nelson will attend to the outfield patrol.

Anaheim, which will be accompanied here by a big delegation of supporters, will use either "Zuse" Ochoa or Kenny Walker and "Whitey" Marten probably will do the receiving. The same Anaheim personnel which once beat Santa Ana, 3 to 2, and once lost, 4 to 3, will be out there trying to make the champions like it. "Scotty" Scott, colorful little Anaheim third baseman who played with Santa Ana last semester, will be with the invaders. Scott's home run with two on, almost beat Santa Ana in the second session between the clubs.

DELANEY TO FIGHT HUDKINS IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., former light heavyweight champion, will meet Ace Hudkins, Nebraska "Wildcat," in a scheduled 10-round bout at Wrigley field here next month, it was announced today. Written consent for the proposed match has been procured from both fighters. The date of the affair has not yet been set definitely, but it is expected to be staged between October 1 and 15.

HITCHCOCK CARRIES U. S. POLO BURDEN

his raps and do some real riding and hitting.

During the winter months, the United States Polo association offered to place a new cup in competition to be symbolic of the "Championship of the Americas" and Argentina accepted the invitation to play the United States four in a series of three matches at Meadowbrook in September.

Milburn, Stevenson Through

Devereaux Milburn and Malcolm Stevenson, heroes of a number of brilliant victories in the international matches against Great Britain, announced positively that they were through with championship competition and Hitchcock was commissioned captain of the American team and assigned to the duty of recruiting a team from among the young talent.

It became apparent soon from the thoroughness and the seriousness with which the South Americans went into the business of preparing for the matches that the United States was in for a real fight—more of a fight against even the "Big Four" that the British offered in the last matches for the international cup.

Milburn refused to be drafted but Stevenson was persuaded to come out of retirement and help Hitchcock. Winnie Guest, the brilliant former Yale star, who was the innocent cause of a near insurrection before the last international matches, claimed a place on the team, and the fourth member is not certain yet.

Brilliant Quartet

The South Americans are exceptionally well mounted, and with Lacey at the head they will have a brilliant quartet with Miles, Kenny and Andrada riding behind him.

In addition to presenting some brilliant team play the matches promise those seldom happening duels between two great stars.

Hitchcock against Lacey has all the promise of a pitching battle between Mathewson and Young; a match between Jim Thorpe and "Red" Grande and a fight between Sullivan and Dempsey.

Around Meadowbrook they know it is going to be a great team battle, but they are preparing for battle and are confident.

Their confidence is placed entirely in Tommy Hitchcock and they say, "What till you see Tommy ride. He never had to do any of his real riding before."

QUAKER CITY IS CONFIDENT A'S WILL WIN RAG

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—After 12 years, Philadelphia visions another world series.

Not even the startling expose of graft, corruption and crime now in progress here has caused the Quaker City to lose interest in the Athletics' stirring battle to overtake the New York Yankees.

Although the Athletics have closed their home season, Philadelphia fans are confident that they will be back here in October to meet the St. Louis Cardinals or New York Giants in the world series.

Philadelphia has not had a world series since 1915, when Pat Moran's Phillies won the National league pennant and met the Boston Red Sox in the fall classic. The way the fans are acting here now one might suppose they never had had a world series.

The newspapers give the Athletics almost equal prominence with the graft investigation. Newsboys on the corner say that it hurts their sales when the A's don't play. Many of them put the sport sheets on the outside of the front page.

Gamblers here are making the Athletics favorites to win the world series if they can cop the American league pennant. They figure Grove, Walberg, Quinn, Rommel, Earnshaw, Ehmke and Orwoll as the best pitching staff in baseball and believe they'll make short work of either the Cardinals or Giants.

YANKS ARE JINX TO 'LEFTY' GROVE

the series. Then again Mack, realizing that New York has been a jinx to Grove, may refrain from starting him more than once. In similar situations in years past, Mack has several times kept his ace on the bench and put the crucial series up to the other members of the staff.

Despite his failure against the Yankees, Grove still feels that he should win over New York as easily as he does the rest of the league. It is said he has requested of Manager Mack that he be started twice against the champions of the universe.

One needs only to glance at Grove's strikeout record to realize how much more stuff he has on the ball than a majority of the pitchers. His total of strikeouts, better than 150, is almost twice as many as his closest rival for the whiff honors.

HIBBS BLAZES STAR TRAIL AS TROJAN PLAYER

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Jesse John Hibbs, who will captain Coach Howard Jones' University of Southern California football team this year, rates as one of the most consistent stars that has ever blazed across the Pacific Coast football sky.

An All-American tackle in his junior year in college, Hibbs was said to be the greatest prep lineman in the country while he was a member of the Lake Forest academy (Illinois) team by none other than Alonzo A. Stag. Stagg called Hibbs the greatest prospect he had ever seen, and in his position as head coach at the University of Chicago it might be stated that he has seen plenty of potent preppers.

Hubbs' prep career started at Normal high school in Illinois, where he won letters in football, basketball and baseball, and continued at Lake Forest, where he was football captain for two years and was twice selected as the outstanding tackle in Central Illinois. Hibbs was a student at Glendale high school in California for one year, not being eligible for football but playing basketball. He graduated from Lake Forest in 1925, and registered at U.S.C. in September of that year. Hibbs was selected as honorary captain of the 1925 freshman team at the end of the season.

The Glendale lad, weighing 190 pounds and standing 5-11 tall, was a regular on the Trojan varsity from the start of his sophomore year, losing only 12 minutes out of the entire playing time during the 1926 season. He was selected for the All-Coast team at the end of his first varsity season and was a consistent star.

In 1927 Hibbs really blossomed out as a great football star. He starred in every game he played, and after the Trojan's great game against Notre Dame at Chicago he virtually was unanimous All-American selection.

Hibbs was the unanimous choice of his teammates for captain of the 1928 team after the Notre Dame game. In this season, his last as a college football player, fans are already saying that he is a sure bet to repeat on the All-Coast and All-American teams.

How to Achieve Real and Lasting BEAUTY---

Within the reach of every woman is that which she most desires—BEAUTY that attracts and holds the attention of others. A pretty face alone will not do it. There must be that beauty which is the result of an exacting care of the body and development of PERSONAL CHARM.

You've seen women, not naturally beautiful, but who draw others of both sexes to them. It is the magnetism of personality which is self-developed to offset their face and figure imperfections.

You, too, can achieve real and lasting beauty through the scientific application of cosmetics, the habits of correct grooming and proper exercise, and most important of all the development of MAGNETIC ATTRACTIVENESS. All of this is within your reach, and to learn how will cost you NOTHING.

The Greene Murder Case

By S. S. Van Dine

SYNOPSIS

The man who solved the mystery of the famous Greene murders and eventually ferreted out the source of the horror was a young social aristocrat, and intimate friend of John F. X. Markham, the district attorney, who for the purposes of this story is called Philo Vance. He became interested in the case when Markham and Sergeant Ernest Heath of the homicide bureau, were called in after the fatal shooting of Julia Greene, and the wounding of her younger sister, Ada. Old Tobias Greene had been dead about twelve years. His widow was a hopeless paralytic and occupied the old Green mansion with five children, Julia, Chester, another daughter, Sibella, a few years under 30; Rex, a sickly, bookish boy a year or so younger; and Ada, a daughter, 22 or 23. The police have a theory of a burglar caught in the act of robbery and frightened into shooting his way to liberty, but Philo Vance is inclined to discredit that theory. Sergeant Heath has told Markham of the circumstances of the shooting. Dr. Von Bron, the Greene family physician, had phoned headquarters about midnight and Heath responded, finding the two women, one dead and the other unconscious—both shot. Snow had fallen during the early night and a set of footprints besides Dr. Von Blon's, led to and from the front door of the Greene mansion. Heath questioned all the family and the servants—a butler, two maids and a cook. Chester Greene and the butler were the only ones who had heard the first shot, fired about half-past 11. But the second shot roused old Mrs. Greene, whose room adjoined the younger girl's. The shot which struck her was fired from behind and the girl had collapsed and was still too weak to talk in the morning, but Dr. Von Blon said she might be questioned during the afternoon. Chester said he had an old .32-caliber revolver which had disappeared from a desk drawer in his bedroom. He meets Vance and the police and takes them over the house.

CHAPTER 4

Markham muttered some polite protestation to which Mrs. Greene paid not the slightest attention. She had turned, with seemingly great difficulty, to the nurse.

"Fix my pillows, Miss Craven," she ordered impatiently, and then added, in a whining tone: "Even you don't give a thought to my comfort." The nurse compiled without a word. "Now, you can go in and sit with Ada until Dr. Von Blon comes. How is the dear child?" Suddenly her voice had assumed a note of simulated solicitude.

"She's much better, Mrs. Greene." The nurse spoke in a colorless, matter-of-fact tone, and passed quietly into the dressing room.

The woman on the bed turned complaining eyes upon Markham.

"It's a terrible thing to be a cripple, unable to walk or even stand alone. Both my legs have been hopelessly paralized for ten years. Think of it, Mr. Markham; I've spent ten years in this bed and that chair"—she pointed to an invalid's chair in the alcove—"and I can't move from one to the other unless I'm lifted bodily. But I console myself with the thought that I'm not long for this world; and I try to be patient. It wouldn't be so bad, though, if my children were only more considerate. But I suppose I expect too much. Youth and health give little thought to the old and feeble—it's the way of the world. And so I make the best of it. It's my fate to be a burden to every one."

Markham had stood looking at the old lady sympathetically.

"I don't wish to anoy you more than is absolutely necessary, madam," he said in a kindly voice. "But it might help considerably if you permitted me to put one or two questions."

"What's a little annoyance, more or less?" she asked. "I've long since become used to it. Ask me anything you choose."

Markham bowed with Old World courtesy. "You are very kind, madam." Then, after a moment's pause: "Mr. Greene tells me you did not hear the shot that was fired in your oldest daughter's room, but that the shot in Miss Ada's room wakened you."

"That is so." She nodded slowly. "Julia's room is a considerable distance away—across the hall. But Ada always leaves the doors open between her room and mine in case I should need anything in the night. Naturally the shot in her room wakened me. * * * Let me see. I must have just fallen to sleep. My back was giving me a great deal of trouble last night; I had suffered all day with it, though I of course didn't tell any of the children it. Little they care how their paralyzed old mother suffers. * * * And then, And then, just as I had managed to doze off, there came the report, and I was wide-awake again—lying here helpless, unable to move, and wondering what awful thing might be going to happen to me. And no one came to see if I was allright; no one though of me, alone and defenseless. But then, no one ever thinks of me."

"I'm sure it wasn't any lack of consideration, Mrs. Greene," Markham assured her earnestly. "The situation probably drove everything momentarily from their minds except the two victims of the shooting. Tell me this: did you hear any other sounds in Miss Ada's room after the shot awakened you?"

"I heard the poor girl fall—at least, it sounded like that?"

"Did you hear the door into the hall open or close, madam?" It was Vance who put the question.

The woman turned her eyes sharply and glared at him.

"No, I heard no door open or close."

"That's rather queer, too, don't you think?" pursued Vance. "The intruder must have left the room."

"I suppose he must have, if he's not there now," she replied acidly, turning again to the District Attorney. "Is there anything else you'd care to know?"

"I think not," he answered; then added: "You of course heard the butler and your son here enter Miss Ada's room?"

"Oh, yes. They made enough noise doing it—they didn't consider my feelings in the least. That fussbudget, Sproot, actually cried out for Chester like a hysterical woman; and, from the way he raised his voice over the telephone, one would have thought Dr. Von Blon was deaf. Then Chester had to rouse the whole house for some unknown reason. Oh, there was no peace or rest for me last night, I can tell you! And the police tramped around the house for hours like a drove of wild cattle. It was positively disgraceful. And here was I a helpless old woman—entirely neglected and forgotten, suffering agonies with my spine."

After a few commiserating banalities Markham thanked her for assistance and withdrew. As we passed out and walked toward the stairs I could hear her calling out angrily: "Nurse! Nurse! Can't you hear me? Come at once and arrange my pillows. What do you mean by neglecting me this way?"

The voice trailed off mercifully as we descended to the main hall.

(Tuesday, November 9th, 3 p. m.)

"The Mater's a crabbed old soul?" Greene apologised off-handedly when we were again in the drawing room. "Always grousing about her doting offspring. Well, where do we go from here?"

Markham seemed lost in thought, and it was Vance who answered.

"Let us take a peep at the servants and hearken to their tale: Sproot for a starter."

Markham roused himself and nodded and Greene rose and pulled a silken bellcord near the archway. A minutes later the butler appeared and stood at obsequious attention just inside the room. Markham had appeared somewhat at sea and even uninterested during the investigation, and Vance assumed command.

"Sit down, Sproot, and tell us as briefly as possible just what occurred last night."

Sproot came forward slowly, his eyes on the floor, but remained standing before the centertable.

"I was reading Martial sir, in my room," he began, lifting his gaze submissively, "when I thought I heard a muffled shot I wasn't quite sure, for the automobiles in the street backfire quite loud at times; and at last I said to myself I'd better investigate. I was in negligee, if you understand what I mean, sir; so I slipped on my bathrobe and came down.

"I didn't know just where the noise had come from; but when I was halfway down the steps, I heard another shot, and this time it sounded like it came from Miss Ada's rom. So I went there at once, and tried the door. It was unlocked, and when I looked in I saw Miss Ada's room. So I went there at once, tressing sight, sir. I called to Mr. Chester, and we lifted the poor young lady to the bed. Then I telephoned to Doctor Von Blon."

Vance scrutinised him

"You are very courageous, Sproot, to brave a dark hall looking for the source of a shot in the middle of the night."

"Thank you, sire," the man answered, with great humility. "I always try to do my duty by the Greene family. I've been with them—"

"We know all that, Sproot," Vance cut him short. "The light was on in Miss Ada's room, I understand, when you opened the door."

"Yes, sir."

"And you saw no one, or heard no noise? No door closing, for instance?"

"No, sir."

"And yet the person who fired the shot must have been somewhere in the hall at the same time you were there."

"I suppose so, sir."

"And he might well have taken a shot at you too."

"Quite so, sir." Sproot seemed wholly indifferent to the danger he had escaped. "But what will be, will be, sir—if you'll pardon my saying so. And I'm an old man—"

"Tut, tut! You'll probably live a considerab[illegible] how long I can't [illegible]."

"No, sir." [illegible] blankly ahead, [illegible] the mysteries of [illegible]."

"You're somewhat [illegible], I see," dryly commented Vance. Then: "When you phoned to Doctor Von Blon, was he in?"

"No, sir; but the night nurse told me he'd be back any minute, and that she'd send him over. He arrived in less than half an hour."

Vance nodded. "That will be all, thank you, Sproot. And now please send me die gnadige Frau Kochin."

The cook, a portly, phlegmatic German woman of about 45, named Gertrude Mannheim, came in and seated herself herself on the edge of a chair near the entrance. Vance, after a moment's keen inspection of her, asked:

"Were you born in this country, Frau Mannheim?"

"I was born in Baden," she answered, in flat rather guttural tones.

"You have not always been a cook, I take it." Vance's voice had a slightly different intonation from that which he had used with Sproot.

At first the woman did not answer.

"No, sir," she said finally. "Not since the death of my husband."

"How did you happen to come to the Greenes?"

ASKS $200,000 HEART BALM OF S. S. CONKLIN

S. S. Conklin, former Orange county newspaper publisher, has been sued for $200,000 by Miss Ola L. Wheeler, who alleges that Conklin refused to carry out his promise to marry her. The suit was filed in Los Angeles.

Miss Wheeler asserts that Conklin induced her to live with him as man and wife on the promise that they would be married.

Conklin, who is secretary-treasurer and associate manager of the Long Beach Press-Telegram, sold the Laguna Beach Life a short time ago to the South Coast News. He was co-owner of the Anaheim Herald several years ago.

$63,000 ASKED IN BREACH OF CONTRACT CASE

Living in a shack on 180 acres of raw land in San Diego county, Elmer M. Ball and his family worked to build a profitable farm, believing the owner of the land would keep an alleged agreement to provide water and labor in order that the crops might prosper, it was alleged in a $63,000 damage suit launched today against Bird V. Beebe, of Anaheim.

But water was not provided and the help asserted to have been promised did not appear, the complaint stated, and the crops withered away. The family left the shack and the once hopeful crops.

According to Ball he entered an agreement with Beebe in April, 1926, whereby he was to farm the land. Beebe, he stated, was to provide irrigation water, 500 feet of pipe, seeds and trees for planting and labor when it was needed. Ball asserted that he was to work the land for 10 years or until it was sold. In return for his work and farming implements he was to receive one-half of the proceeds from the farm after Beebe had been reimbursed for money expended.

Ball and his family remained until January, 1927, he said, when they left with the understanding that Beebe would provide the necessary facilities he is said to have promised by the next December. Later, however, another farmer moved onto the land, buildings appeared and Ball said he believed Beebe had entered into an agreement with another party.

In demanding judgment for $63,000, Ball pointed out that after 10 years, or when the land was sold, he was to receive any increase in value which the land obtained after he took it over. He declared that its worth had risen from $300 to $400 and that it would be worth $1000 an acre if he had been able to remain on it.

Beebe, the plaintiff asserted, had promised to reduce the alleged agreement to writing, but never has done so.

Pasadenan Is Arrested On Check Count

Asserted to have passed a worthless check for $24 at the Sol Gonzales store, on East Fourth street, last night, Frank Graham, 37, 1104 Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena, was arrested by Sid Smithwick, assistant chief of police, and is being held in the county jail on a forgery charge.

Graham is said to have gone to the store and asked for $1 on the check, stating that he would return in a short time for the remainder of the money. When he returned, Smithwick was waiting for him, Gonzales having learned in the meantime, it was said, that the check was worthless.

FAIR OFFICIALS AND EXHIBITORS LIONS' GUESTS

With Jay R. Hunt, secretary-manager of the Orange County fair, as chairman, the meeting of the Lions club yesterday, was given over largely to the kidding of F. L. Purinton, Santa Ana's "cowboy mayor," who was in charge of the rodeo at the fair, and to the presentation of exhibitors and officials of the fair.

Special guests were Ed Gaines, a real California pioneer; the Misses Tina and Mildred Yorba, scions of the pioneer Yorba family; Mrs. Vincent Yorba, H. A. Lake, president of the fair association; Herbert L. Clark, leader of the Long Beach band, and Mrs. Clark; John Henry Lyons, community sing leader, who led the club in a few songs, and T. B. Parsons and son, George, of Pico.

Clark paid his compliments to the Santa Ana band, declaring that Santa Ana "should be proud to have as resident a man of the ability of D. C. Cianfoni to take charge of the musical organization." He also expressed surprise to find a band of the calibre of the Santa Ana band in a community as small as Santa Ana.

A pleasing incident of the meeting was the presentation, by J. A. Henderson, on behalf of the club, of a special secretary's badge to E. M. Sundquist as a recognition of the service Sundquist is rendering the organization. An efficient secretary and a finished piano player, Sundquist's association has been invaluable to the club, he pointed out.

SANTA ANAN TO JOIN EXPERT ON EXPLORATIONS

By ED EARL REPP

The Pacific coast scientific world has manifested considerable interest in the arrival here of Prof. M. R. Harrington, who came direct from the Museum of the American Indian, New York City, to begin his duties as the new director of research for the Southwest museum.

Professor Harrington, perhaps one of the best-known and most reliable authorities on the American Indian, motored to the coast from the east by way of Arizona and New Mexico, in which states he stopped over for brief explorations of various subjects.

In Gallup, N. M., the eminent scientist discovered a new "book" in southwestern pre-history by locating the fossilized remnants of a once powerful Indian nation which lived in hand-hewn caves for the most part.

Lived In Caves

Long before Christ, this tribe of red aborigines lived in peace in their caves deep in the chalk cliffs of the surrounding New Mexican mountains. The exact antiquity of the race has not yet been determined by Professor Harrington, who believes that it vanished some 900 or 1000 years ago. The race, he believes, was of the early Pueblo Indians.

The discovery is considered of great magnitude in determining the age of man in our most southerly states and will add much to our limited knowledge of races of man of old Azteca days and to some extent answer the often asked question, "How old is man in America?"

As director of research for the Southwest museum, Professor Harrington's first probable undertaking will be to explore the burial grounds of an ancient race of Indians which once inhabited Death valley.

First hint of the existence of these burial mounds which exist in the number of approximately 200, was given to Register readers some time ago in an article prepared by Robert A. Quail, staff photographer, who made a trip into Death valley with the writer to investigate reports of discoveries made by H. Flagler Cowden in the petrified forest near Mojave.

It was with considerable satisfaction that Register readers obtained first hand accounts of the discovery of huge fossils of prehistoric beasts in the deposits located by Cowden as told through Quail's versatile pen. The Register reporter also made mention of the discovery of the old burial mounds

Timmons Home Setting For Pretty Bridge And Luncheon

The lovely home of Mrs. Edward Timmons, of Red Hill, made a cool retreat from the heat of this city yesterday for a group of women gathered there for luncheon and bridge. They were the guests of Mrs. Timmons, and her mother, Mrs. George Briggs, of 644 North Broadway.

The delicious luncheon was served at small card tables, centered with bouquets of pom-pom dahlias while huge baskets of giant dahlias throughout the home carried out the color scheme.

Mrs. Timmons and Mrs. Briggs were assisted in their hostess duties by Mrs. Francis Selway and Mrs. Loring Dale.

When bridge scores were added it was found that Mrs. Roy Hall was high while Mrs. Blanche Andrews was second and Mrs. R. O. Winckler was low. Each received an attractive gift.

Miss Vance Presents Pretty Bridge Tea At Country Club

Probably no other spot in Orange county offered so delightful a retreat on a hot summer day, as did Santa Ana Country club yesterday afternoon, when Miss Louise Vance, of Tustin, entertained a group of her friends at a bridge tea of much charm and distinction.

Tables for play were arranged in the downstairs card room, where cool breezes from the sea, swept in through the chintz-hung windows. Miss Mabel White's skill at bridge won for her the attractive first prize, while an equally desirable gift was presented Miss Louise Artz, whose score was second high.

At 5 o'clock, the card tables were cleared of the bridge equipment, and each one was spread with snowy linen for serving the inviting menu of iced fruit salad, the daintiest of petite fors, and coffee. Adding to the charm of the tea hour—indeed of the whole afternoon—were the massed zinnias in autumn shades, ranging through golden yellows to the deep bronze tones, which adorned the tables and were used as a background for the charmingly clad young girls of the guest list.

Miss Charlotte Vance aided her sister in extending hospitality, and Mrs. Charles A. Vance served as chaperon for the afternoon.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

More'n One Way to Cook a Codfish.

Today being Friday, and fish the subject under discussion, we might just as well do it thoroughly while we are at it.

Many families occasionally like the salty tang of cod fish for breakfast but they seem to think that creamed cod fish and cod fish cakes are the beginning and end of this subject. I have a new recipe for cooking this fish that will be enjoyed by most everyone.

INDIVIDUAL COD FISH OMELETTES

Pour boiling water over a cod fish fillet, rinse and soak for 10 minutes, drain and cover with cold water in which the fish is left until morning. It is then cooked and picked apart and for every cup of fish two well beaten eggs are added. Have a heavy iron skillet heated, some melted butter in it; drop big spoonful of the fish into the hot butter and quickly brown on both sides. Serve immediately with hot buttered toast.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Baked Salmon With Dressing

For this purpose buy a salmon weighing about 5 or 6 pounds. This is salmon season and the fish can be bought as low as 50 cents for the whole fish. Wash well and with a sharp knife cut down along the back bone on each side (internally) so that the fish opens up more readily. Wash away all the blood and other debris. Salt the fish well after thoroughly drying it, inside and out. Fill it with a dressing made of—

- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 small minced onion sauted in
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 teaspoons minced parsley
- 1 tablespoon minced pepper
- 1 egg, well beaten
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- Cream to moisten dressing

The bread crumbs are taken from the soft part of the loaf and are added to the butter and onion after the sauteing process. The minced green pepper and parsley are also added at that time.

The heat is increased to heat the dressing through, then decreased and the pan is covered and drawn off the flame to steam for ten minutes. When ready to stuff the fish add the beaten egg and just enough cream to moisten the dressing so that it will hold together more readily.

A CODFISH OMELETTE? THAT'S A NEW ONE
FISH FOR FRIDAY

In stuffing the fish, place it on the board with its back to you, pat the dressing into place by the spoonful and when the fish has enough to comfortably fill it, tie it at 2-inch intervals with twine.

Rub over with melted bacon fat and dredge with flour. Place in the baking pan with a little water and fat for basting purposes and bake, allowing 15 minutes to each pound of fish.

Cold salmon, boiled or baked, masked with mayonnaise and pickles, provides a delicious cold dish for another meal.

Serving half of the baked salmon to a family of six will give a total of 640 calories to the individual. In baked salmon there is not so much fat and thus we have the proteins in this case very much in the majority.

* * *

Liver and heart cut in strips and cooked in a delicious sauce is not a bit hard to take—and it keeps the meat bill down, too!

Miss Lorraine Farrage, 13, Wins Three Prizes

The lists of awards in the culinary department of the Orange county fair, announced yesterday in The Register carries the name of Miss Lorraine Farrage, but that is not the reason for this story.

For one person to win three awards is out of the ordinary perhaps and therefore worthy of special mention, but the fact that Miss Farrage, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Farrage, is only 13 years old and the fact that she was competing against some of the best "grown up" cake bakers in the county, makes her achievements worth a story.

Miss Farrage has been competing in Orange county fairs for the past several years, always baking several cakes and putting them up for prizes, but heretofore it has always been in the juvenile class. She has never failed to win first second or third prize, but this year, there was no juvenile department, and she was forced to put up her cakes against "all comers."

She won first prize for the best chocolate layer cake, second prize for her angel food's cake and first prize for her entry of sugar cookies.

Miss Farrage was rather disappointed when she learned there was no juvenile department for culinary efforts at the fair this year and it was after some persuasion that she allowed her cakes to be placed in the cake department.

Executive Board, County Women's Clubs Meets At Costa Mesa

Presidents and representatives from nearly every one of the federated women's clubs in Orange county, chairmen of many of the departments, state and district officers, were present for the inspirational meeting of the executive board of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs, presided over by Mrs. Albert Launer, of Fullerton, president, in the Costa Mesa Friday Afternoon club house, all day Wednesday.

Starting promptly at 10 o'clock, presidents of the various clubs occupied the morning hours, after the detail business was disposed of, with plans for the coming year, in the work of the individual clubs.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, of Garden Grove, director of the Orange County fair, community singing was enjoyed just before lunch led by John Henry Lyons, of Pasadena, famous leader of community singing, and director of music in the Pasadena schools.

Mrs. H. E. DeNyse, of Riverside, president of the Southern District federation, was a special guest of the day, and her breezy handling of the various problems, and her wise counsel and firm advice, added a high point to an unusually helpful day. Mrs. DeNyse announced "Personal Responsibility" as the district slogan for the year, and asked each woman to take the message to her club in added work for the good of her community.

Chairman of the various departments were introduced and each spoke briefly of plans and programs. Miss E. Kate, of Anaheim, chairman of the division of education, called to the attention of the members the two problems which will soon confront Orange county voters—the question of the junior college, whether a county institution, or a North Orange county and a South Orange county college; and the question of whether or not California will adopt the county unit of school government.

Mrs. E. E. Smith, also of Anaheim, and chairman of the Department of International relations, which accomplished so much under Mrs. Smith's chairmanship last year, announced "Women and World Politics" as her subject for the coming season, and invited everyone to a luncheon at The Anaheim Elks club on Tuesday, September 11, to hear Miss Katherine Smith, of La Jolla, district chairman of international relations.

Earl Campbell, of Orange, member of the Orange County Farm Bureau board of directors and chairman of its legislative committee, was the speaker of the afternoon, explaining and discussing the Federal Plan of Reapportionment which is to appear on the November ballot as No. 1 Amendment. He asked that the women use their influence for a "yes" vote, that the rural areas might retain their part in the government of California.

Norman Blaney, recently elected secretary of the Orange County farm bureau, was also introduced and spoke briefly.

Mrs. A. P. Nelson, of Santa Ana, state chairman of Co-operation with War Veterans, spoke of the real work the women's clubs are doing to aid and urged the co-operation of every club.

Women of the hostess club served a delightful noon luncheon, and were accorded a vote of thanks for their many expressions of hospitality by the vice president, Mrs. J. S. Thurston, of Laguna Beach.

Business Women's Club

Interest of Business and Professional Women's club members has been directed for the past week, towards making their theater party tonight at the West Coast-Walker theater, one of the big events of the autumn.

In planning for the event, the clubwomen had the co-operation of Charles E. Walker, manager of the theater, who suggested the play "Wickednes Preferred," as a sparkling little comedy co-starring Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle. The club members have been selling tickets for the affair, as they will realize a certain sum from every ticket, disposed of by a member.

Mrs. John [illegible], B. and P. W. president, announced today that there would be no meeting of the club next Monday at St. Ann's Inn.

Husband Plans Dinner To Honor Birthday Of His Wife

Returning home at the close of a pleasant day spent in Long Beach with Mrs. James Sparkes of Anaheim, now enjoying a vacation stay at Seal Beach, Mrs. Fred W. Hein of Newhope Road, was a surprised guest in her own home, at a delightful dinner planned for her by her husband.

The occasion was her birthday, and Mr. Hein proved himself a chef worthy of the famous "cordon bleu" by the dinner he prepared. The table was arranged with flowers and tall pink tapers. To the added surprise of the birthday honoree, her arrival home was closely followed by the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Sparks, who were party to Mr. Hein's plot, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright of Irvine.

After the enjoyable dinner, "rook" was introduced as the evening amusement.

Mrs. Hein and Mrs. Wright were schoolgirl friends. Mrs. Sparkes is a bride of but three months, and Mrs. Hein was soloist at her pretty wedding in the "Little Church of the Flowers," Glendale.

Entertaining Contests Are Enjoyed at Shower

A pretty shower was held last night for Miss Zelma Hayward by Mrs. Will Wyckoff and Miss Lillian Arnold at Mrs. Wyckoff's home at 1901 South Broadway. Incentive for the affair was Miss Hayward's approaching marriage to Leo Chumel of Orange.

Several entertaining games and contests were enjoyed, chief among which was a garden contest. As Miss Mabel Cole named the longest list of old fashioned garden flowers she was presented with an attractive prize. Miss Jeannette Hammerstead received consolation prize.

During a game in which the honoree was blindfolded, the many gifts brought her were arranged upon a table. She received a number of articles for her new home.

Refreshments of heart shaped ices and cake were served by the hostesses.

Those enjoying the affair were Miss Evelyn Gredler, Miss Jeannette Hammerstead, Miss Jane White, Miss Pearl Smalley, Miss Lucille White, Miss Mabel Cole, Miss Edna Timm, Miss Mae Barker, Miss Ursula Miller, Miss daintiest of petite fors, and coffee. Rosa Meyers, Miss Emone Fisher, and the honoree, Miss Hayward.

The elephant that Clowny had grew tired of acting and turned bad. He stood up on his haunches and began to snort aloud. The roaring noise just shook the tent, and outside all the people went. "My goodness," cried poor Clowny, "it is quite a frightened crowd.

"I'm sorry, but it is a fact that they weer scared out by my act. It's up to me to get them back. The trainer will be mad." Up to his elephant he ran, and said, "Behave now, if you can." The elephant grew quiet then, and this made Clowny glad.

Said he, "I'll fix things up somehow. I'll climb upon this beast right now and ride out there among the crowd so they'll know all is well." He did this very thing right quick. His plan eventually worked out slick. The crowd looked at the elephant, and all ran back, pell mell.

That night, when everything was o'er, the trainer man began to roar. He told poor Clowny he knew of the trouble he had had. "You did just right," he calmy said. "'Twas fine the way you used you head. If you had grown excited, things might have turned out bad."

And then outside the tent there came a scream. My, who was to blame? Both Clowny and the trainer scampered out to look around. They shortly got a big surprise, which made them open wide their eyes. You never, never could guess what a funny thing they found.

'Twas Carpy and a frisky mule. It seemed that Carpy had been fool enough to tease the animal. Gee, what a risky chance. The mule had turned on him real quick, as if to give a good swift kick. And then it changed it's mind and grabbed poor Carpy by the pants.

BEAUTY-HEALTH-CHARM

By Mme. [illegible]

I don't believe that cleanliness is next to godliness. I believe it is next to impossible.

In this helter-skelter age, and with our helter-skelter manner of living, it is indeed next to impossible to preserve the high standards of personal hygiene so essential to health. Not impossible, of course, but it does require watchfulness.

By "cleanliness" I do not mean merely external daintiness. That, too, goodness knows, is difficult enough, with all the grime and rumple of being civilized. And isn't even inspiration itself said to be nine-tenths perspiration?

But the greatest hazards are not with even-your-best-friends-won't-tell-you or smudgy countenances. Most of us do manage to present a fairly well-scrubbed exterior to the world.

But many of us who swoon at the thought of ears not washed behind are quite resigned about other—and vastly more important—nooks and crannies of the anatomy. The inner regions, which all too often would put any tow-urchin's neck to shame. And you can't be really CLEAN or healthy or beautiful, you know, unless it's inside and outside all the time.

All this comes about when the organs of elimination fail in their appointed duty of getting rid of the normal wastes of the body. These organs of elimination are the intestines, the kidneys, the lungs, and the skin. But since the intestines are the chief offenders (they get all the others into trouble, too) I think we'd better scold them most severely. They do play such mischief, you know, literally poisoning the body and bringing about almost all the ailments in the catalog.

And would you believe it, it's almost entirely our own fault. We don't exercise intelligently. We ask our systems to play camel, and dole out water to it almost by the drop. We feed like barbarians What chance do the poor old intestines have?

There seems to be a law governing the body structure that must be used. If it isn't used, it becomes dull and stupid and finally seems to forget what it was originally intended for. Our present mode of life denies to the body that vigorous, stimulating use which would keep it pulsing with life and health.

We live now in our minds and emotions, rather than the muscles. And so it becomes necessary to provide a systematic regime of intensive use of the body to make up for this lack. That means intelligent exercise. And any intelligent regime, of course, includes movements which increase the vitality and mobility of the abdominal organs and muscles, aiding thus in the tone and activity of the intestines.

Two quarts of water daily are the least you can give the body and keep it in good humor. The intestinal walls are extremely porous, made so for just the purpose of absorbing great quantities of water. This obviously assists in expelling the collected wastes. If insufficient quantities of water are drunk, the normal fluids of the body are drawn upon, and the skin becomes dry, the mouth cottony, and the entire mechanism impaired for want of lubricant.

And our diet! Whew! The principle of the muscular action (Peristalsis) by which the intestines force the accumulated refuse from the body requires a bulk with which to work. Our usual bread and meat and potatoes diet is conspicuously lacking in bulk. More leafy and fibrous vegetables, more fruit and bran (be sure it's all bran, not merely a whole grain cereal), and less meats and heavy starches and sweets, and the trouble vanishes. The bran also has the virtue of absorbing large quantities of water, with the resultant profits outlined above.

Make your innards wash behind their ears, too. There's no use talking of godliness otherwise.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Accompanied by Director Hobart Henley, several cast members and a large technical staff, Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle, who are co-starred in "Wickedness Preferred," at the Walker theater, recently made a location trip to La Jolla, Calif.

The beaches, palisades, and the famous La Jolla caves were used as backgrounds in the new production which is based on an original story from the pens of Florence Ryerson and Colin Clement.

"Wickedness Preferred" is the first directorial assignment of Director Henley under his new M-G-M contract and marks the third co-starring appearance of Cody and Miss Pringle as a screen team. They recently co-starred in "Adam and Evil," and in Rol Cooper Megrue's stage farce, "Tea for Three." Both of these pictures were directed by Robert Z. Leonard.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

"Tempest," the new John Barrymore picture for United Artists, showing at the Broadway theater, represents the largest financial outlay, the longest production scheduled and the greatest striving for popular entertainment in the famous star's screen career.

"Tempest" incidentally answers the plea of thousands of Barrymore's admirers for a picture in a modern setting. After a series of big costume pictures, in which he played romantic characters of hundreds of years ago, Barrymore and his United Artists associates yielded to popular demand and filmed a modern story—a saga of twentieth century Russia.

WEST END THEATER

A magnificent drama of raw, bleeding life, with the shifting treacherous background of the high seas, is waiting for every lover of genuine motion picture entertainment on the screen of the West End theater, when the Gotham production, "Hellship Bronson," is the attraction this week.

Brutally frank, unadorned by the petty conventions of civilized society, "Hellship Bronson" tells an amazing story of hate, greed, lust, love, and sacrifice. No mere paper-recitation of story or action can grasp the sheer genius of Noah Beery's acting, of the pathos and grim mother-love of Mrs. Wallace Reid's performance. Those two starring stars have never shown to better advantage than in "Hellship Bronson." It's an epic from the standpoint of acting, conception, direction, and correlation.

BRIDGE MADE EASY

by W. W. Wentworth

(Abbreviations: A—ace; K—king; Q—queen; J—jack; X—any card lower than 10.)

Here are additional illustrations of the disadvantage of the singleton lead when one holds length or strength in trumps. In each instance south's declaration is hearts and west, who must lead, holds:

1—Spades, A K XX; hearts, XXX; diamonds, X; clubs, XXXX.

West should open with the spade King. If partner plays in a manner which encourages leading spades, west should continue that suit. Otherwise, west should lead the singleton on the next round.

2—Spades, XXXX; hearts, Q XX; diamonds, X; clubs, Q J 10 XX.

West should not lead the singleton. When holding trumps as good as QXX, the singleton lead is inadvisable. West should lead the club Queen. Dummy may cover with the club King and partner may take the club Ace. Returning the club suit, partner may enable you to take the next trick with the club Jack. West should play the club 10 on the third round and if partner discards a diamond higher than the diamond 6, west should then lead his singleton.

3—Spades, X; hearts, K X; diamonds, XXXXX; clubs, XXXXX.

West should lead the singleton. An astute player would rely upon partner's taking the trick and returning the spade suit. West would then win the trick with his small trump and lead a diamond or club. It is probable that the declarer will finesse in an attempt to capture the heart King and it will win a trick even though the protecting card is missing.

A finish especially for linoleum!

Lin-o-bone
that does all the 6 important things!

Scientifically created especially for linoleum, Lin-o-bone is a marvelous linoleum finish that does all the 6 things every housewife has wanted of such a coating.

Lin-o-bone does all 6
(1) Preserves the linoleum's original beauty and freshness.
(2) Makes the surface easy to clean—saves labor.
(3) Forms a protective surface that dirt and grease cannot penetrate.
(4) Dries with bone-like hardness, wears like iron, saves money.
(5) Gives a mellow—not shiny—lustre to the linoleum.
(6) Easy to apply, quick to dry.

For new or old linoleum
Whether your linoleum is new or old, it will pay you to apply Lin-o-bone. It is inexpensive, easy to apply, dries so quickly it can be walked on an hour later, and prolongs the life of the linoleum. Once coated with Lin-o-bone, linoleum is soil-proof. It can be instantly cleaned with a damp cloth—eliminating all scrubbing.

For new linoleum:
Appreciating the need, some manufacturers are producing linoleum that has an easy-to-clean, beautiful finish. Application of Lin-o-bone will keep this new finish fresh and beautiful.

For old linoleum:
Lin-o-bone will make your old linoleum dirt-proof, renew its beauty, and lengthen its life.

Two ways to obtain Lin-o-bone
You can buy a can of Lin-o-bone from your dealer for $1.75 per quart and easily apply it with a brush. For the average kitchen a quart is enough. If you prefer, your dealer will quickly apply Lin-o-bone for you at a very reasonable price per quart—less, in fact, than the cost of a good brush.

Beautify and protect that linoleum today with Lin-o-bone. Ask your dealer or write us for booklet "The Care of Linoleum." It's free.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

BREA

BREA, Sept. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ellenberger were among the friends who recently assisted in celebrating the 11th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Countess, of Anaheim. Others from this vicinity who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scott, of the Fullerton Oil company, and Mrs. Fred Smalley, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Countess are former residents of Brea, having moved to Anaheim about a year ago. They were presented with several gifts.

F. A. Peil, of Medford, Ore., arrived in Brea this week and is visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. O. R. Meissner. Mr. Peil will be remembered as having visited here several months with the family of his daughter, returning to Oregon about six months ago.

Mrs. Rosalie Williams, proprietor of the Smart shoppe, is nursing a very sore third finger of the left hand, injured when a car door was closed on that member. An X-ray examination revealed that the tip of the bone in the finger had been splintered into six pieces. The finger is healing nicely.

Miss Mary Hunt, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Remfry Hunt, leaves tomorrow for Mills college near Oakland, where she will enter for a two year course and where she may possibly continue for four years. Miss Hunt graduated this year from the Brea-Olinda union high school.

Chief of Police Williams and Mrs. Williams have returned from their vacation at Balboa. They were fortunate in having the use of a speed boat during their stay at Balboa and spent much of their time in it. During the chief's absence his duties fell upon his assistant, W. E. Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cox and daughter, recently of Los Neitos, have moved to Brea and are settled in the property on South Walnut recently vacated by Miss Alice Lee Rocker, formerly a teacher in the local grammar school. Mr. Cox is local manager of the First National bank, a position he has held for the past year or more.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Close and son, Bobbie, returned Monday from a motor trip of three weeks, most of which was spent in the vicinity of the Big Basin. Mr. Close, who was not well when they left Brea, is said to have been improved by the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dustin and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kerr were dinner guests on Labor day of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Delacore, of La Habra. The Dustins formerly lived in La Habra, where the other two families still reside.

Mrs. C. G. Russell has returned from a visit with her mother at Syracuse, Kan. Mrs. Russell was accompanied by her 10-year-old son, Charles.

Following a visit of a week in the Fred W. Brambley home, Mrs. Minnie Searle returned yesterday to her home in Pomona.

Charles Alkire, of Brea, Jack Alkire, of Olinda, and Roy Alkire, of Long Beach, brothers, were called to Tacoma, Wn., last week by a wire stating that their father was very ill. Before they reached that city, the father had died and the funeral services were held on August 27. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alkire recently moved to Long Beach after years of residence in the Brea district.

Eleven members of the Bee Hive club gathered Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ora Anderson, enjoying a pot-luck luncheon at noon and using the intervening hours of needlework in connection with the bazaar which they plan to give in November.

Those present were the president of the club, Mrs. Edna Brambley, and Mrs. Mary Edmonson, Mrs. Alice Stevens, Mrs. Mollie Ellenberger, Mrs. Pearl Dustin, Mrs. Effie Law, Mrs. Jean Hogue, Mrs. Rosella Rudd, Mrs. Viola Russell, Mrs. Stella Keene and the hostess, Mrs. Anderson. The next meeting of the club will be held on September 18 at the home of Mrs. Nancy Kerr, in La Habra.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Fleisher and daughter, Helen, the latter accompanied by a girl friend from Los Angeles, motored to Oceanside Monday. It was the first day in many months that Mr. Fleisher had been absent from his drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner, newlyweds, are occupying the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. SEAFLIGHTS CAUSE LINERS MUCH EXPENSE

LONDON, Sept. 7. — Searching for lost trans-atlantic flyers has become an important item in the expense of operating ocean liners.

Even when a flight is successful, ships along the route taken by the aviators are obliged to provide an extra watch and to communicate the position of any 'plane sighted. This is cheerfully done, of course, and ships are diverted from their courses just as cheerfully when the word is received that a 'plane has been lost. But the expense to the shipping companies is far greater than the layman would imagine.

If a liner spends one day seeking a lost airplane, the shipping company must bear at least the following loss: one day's extra pay for the crew; one day's extra food for passengers; fuel for one extra day; one day lost in port before the return sailing. Then, too, passengers must miss connections in port or suffer business losses; the officers and crew are forced to work under nervous tension during the search and in attempting to regain lost time after the ship's course is resumed.

Officials of shipping companies do not complain of this extra expense. Saving lives is part of the tradition of the sea. There is no thought of compensation. A remembrance for the captain or a donation for the crew of a liner may be made in all sincerity, but it is nothing compared with the expense of a rescue. Many ships which leave their courses too late to be of service are not even mentioned when the newspapers tell their thrilling story of what the aviators thought about while waiting to be saved.

"The actual cost of making a rescue at sea can hardly be estimated," a spokesman for the United States Lines in London told the United Press." If a stranded airplane sends out an SOS, all the ships within reasonable distance answer the call at full steam. But the 'plane may drift from 50 to 100 miles before it is sighted. The first ship on the scene will advise the others if their help is not needed.

"Suppose that the Leviathan, with 1000 passengers and 800 crew, loses a day in seeking or rescuing a trans-atlantic 'plane. A conservative estimate, without counting a day lost in port before the return voyage, placed the loss at $14,000."

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Ora Scheiber, principal of the Westminster school. was in town caling on friends, Saturday. Mrs. Schieber and daughter, Lucille, and Mrs. Schieber's mother, Mrs. Thomas, had just returned from Missouri, where they spent the summer. Mr. Schieber is still detained there by business affairs. Mrs. Schieber and family are located in Santa Ana, were they purchased a home prior to leaving for the east in June.

The Rev. R. A. Weld, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, occupied the pulpit Sunday morning and evening, the usual schedule of church services having been resumed with the return of the pastor, who was on vacation during the month of August.

It was announced that the Junior Christian Endeavor meetings would not be held until the Sunday following the opening of school, which will be one week from next Sunday.

A blackboard chart, each square representing $25 of the $800 which the congregation of the church is raising to defray the cost of the new Sunday school building, was presented by the pastor at the morning service. It was explained that the payments will reach over a period of three years and any one wishing to contribute to the fund is at liberty to choose their time for payment by marking the month and year desired.

Over one half of the months have already been taken.

Many of the former residents of Westminster came Monday to be present at the annual reunion and among those from other places were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mack, San Gabriel; M. A. Kiefhaber, Orange; Mrs. Mary Anderson Tilton, Los Angeles; the Rev. B. Silkwood, Garden Grove; Mrs. Laura James, Miss Lutie Lyman, Mrs. Belle Rogers, Santa Ana; Mrs. and Mrs. H. Schneider, Mrs. Helen Schnitger, Garden Grove; Mr. and Mrs. George Mack, Los Angeles; Mrs. Annie Sedwick, Los Angeles; Walter Byram, Los Angeles; Hensler Larter, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gothard, Huntington Beach; William McPherson, McPherson; Mrs. Edward Johnson; Mrs. Margaret Craig Fisk, Los Angeles; Mrs. Francis Bonhan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClintock, Compton; Mrs. G. Hamlin, Tipton; George Gothard, Winterburg, Mrs. Viola McFaden Samuel, Roswell, New Mexico; Mrs. Mary Sherwood, May Sherwood, Hollywood; Mrs. Nettie Kelly Stephenson, Elsinore; Mrs. David Rogers, Los Angeles; Mrs. M. Stough, Placentia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Crane and family, Mrs. Francis Penhall, Mrs. Alveretta Campbell, Mrs. Edna Day and Mrs. Harry Penhall, motored to Wilmington Saturday evening to bid farewell to Mrs. George Getgood and Miss Ethel Thompson, of New York, cousins of Mrs. Crane, who took passage on the Mongolia to return to their eastern home.

Mrs. Getgood and Miss Thompson will be on the water 16 days and will make two stops, one at Panama, the other at Havana, Cuba. The visitors who have spent the greater part of the summer with relatives in Southern California, came out by boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells McCoy are at Cedar Pines, where they went last Saturday and where they are remaining while seeing about the erection of a mountain cabin.

Mrs. Raymond Penhall spent Sunday in Los Angeles were her sister, Mrs. Frances Hay.

Mrs. Loyal Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Knox, of Westminster, is again ill at her home in Altadena. Mrs. Hughes, who has been ill for many weeks, was expected to be up the latter part of last week but suffered a relapse the day set for her to be out, so she has not yet been able to leave her bed.

Matthew Rogers, son of Mrs. David Rogers, and a native of Westminster, is very low at his home in Los Angeles following a protracted illness and operation, it has been learned here.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Her So Much

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I was just completely run-down. I had tired, heavy, sluggish feelings and I could not eat. I was losing in weight. I read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what a good medicine it is, that I started taking it. I have taken eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and about the same in tablet form. This is one medicine a woman should have in the house all the time. I am improving every day and I sure am able to eat. I am willing to answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ella Richards, 21 Chautauqua St., N.S. Pittsburgh, Pa.

Now Is the Time to Get Your Prize-Winning Votes

NOW is the time to enter The Register's $17,000 automobile and prize campaign. NOW is the best time of all to get your prize winning votes. The votes that will win the ten automobiles and sixteen cash awards to be given at the close of the campaign, October 20.

Every $20 worth of new subscriptions turned in by September 15 means 100,000 extra votes for you—all the regular votes on each separate subscription given as usual. Never again such a big vote offer.

Every $20 worth of new subscriptions constitutes a club worth 100,000 extra votes. If you obtain over or under a club, extra votes will be given pro rata. Two clubs mean 200,000 extra votes, and so on.

HERE'S HOW TO ENTER CAMPAIGN

As a starter, The Register will give you 12,000 free votes upon receipt of the nomination blank printed below. This offer holds good for a limited time, however, and those who are planning to enter should do so at once in order to gain this advantage. The candidate is then prepared to go after the first subscription and this will yield thousands of votes, too, depending on its length. The first subscription has an additional vote value of 20,000—all of which gives the candidate an excellent send-off.

The opportunity to win in this unusually liberal prize campaign is as good for the small-town or country resident as it is for one who lives in the city. In fact, residence has nothing to do with it, except that one must live in Orange county in order to participate in the campaign. Anyone may enter the campaign, except employes of The Register. Candidates are NOT restricted to any certain locality or their district in obtaining subscriptions—get them anywhere.

The campaign is just getting under way, there are very few active candidates to date, and NOW is the time to enter. Start now and take advantage of the 100,000 extra vote offer.

Send or bring the nomination blank below, and you will be given receipt books for your use in taking subscriptions.

LIST OF CANDIDATES

The list of candidates below shows those nominations received up to Thursday evening. The list does not necessarily show the actual vote standing of all candidates, as only enough votes are published to show who are the active contestants.

SEEK WAY TO SAVE SUPPLY OF SEA FOOD

BY HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The oyster is confronted with the fate that has overcome the dodo, for the ocean beds upon which this edible mollusk spawns are being depleted.

The government is working on the problem through the Bureau of Fisheries, and the National Association of State Shellfish Commissioners will take occasion on September 7 and 8 to learn a lesson in seafood conservation. The association will hold its annual meeting on these dates at Woods Hole, Mass., where the bureau maintains an experimental oyster station.

Dr. Lewis Radcliffe, deputy commissioner of the bureau, told the United Press today that the annual catch of the entire Atlantic coast is close to the equivalent of the Chesapeake Bay catch back in 1880—about 17,000,000 bushels.

In this half century, however, the price has risen so much that the total price paid the fishermen for their catch is approximately the same as in 1880.

In recent years, the bureau has conducted surveys of oyster beds in Massachusetts, North and South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas, to devise conservation measures.

Means are also being sought to combat the drill, a pest blamed for much of the Chesapeake Bay oyster depletion.

A curious development in the bureau's work was the recent survey of Florida waters to determine if pearl oysters could be grown successfully. The bureau found that Black Water Sound, Palmsacola Bay, and Largo Sound, near Key Largo and Tampa, were suitable for experiments in artificial pearl culture.

The shellfish commissioners also will discuss problems concerning the economically important industries of producing lobsters, scallops, clams, shrimps and other seafoods.

Sutter Creek Is Again Stirred By Gold Discovery

SUTTER CREEK, Cal., Sept. 7.—"There's gold in them thar streets" was the word that ran through this city the other day, when road crews scarifying the streets uncovered two $20 gold pieces.

Men, women and children flocked to the street, frenziedly searching the upturned soil for money. The largest sum, $100, was found by John Bernardis.

The story goes that back in the "Days of '49" Richard Clemens, wealthy saloon-keeper, died suddenly. He had hidden his money back of his bar, and when it was moved down the main street, the $20 goldpieces were strewn all along the road in the mud.

HORSE SHOW IS ATTRACTION AT COUNTY'S FAIR

event for Orange county riders last night, Joseph Wade, of Orange, won. John Ortega, of Placentia, was second and Angel Reyes, Brea, placed third.

Today is designated as Coast Cities day at the fair. Friday, the day before the close, is by tradition one of the best attended days of the fair. Last year Friday, with an attendance of more than 15,000, ranked after the opening day for popularity with the public.

The Santa Monica municipal band will play concert programs tonight in the main tent and at the horse show. The band played this afternoon. The Putnam School of Dancing will present a program, sponsored by St. Ann's Inn, in the main tent tonight.

A conglomeration of barks and yelping accompanied the opening of the second annual Orange County Dog show, under the auspices of the Orange County Kennel club, at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Champion canines of the Pacific coast, with the added attraction of an entry here and there from other parts of the country and two sheep dogs from England, are competing for nearly 100 cups at the show.

Two hundred dogs have been entered in the show which will continue until tomorrow night. Famous dogs will be on the benches in the dog show tent. Harold Lloyd, the movie actor, is exhibiting five Great Danes and three St. Bernards. Hercuveen Bravo, one of the St. Bernards, was a winner in the great Westminster dog show in New York.

Two sheep dogs, of the breed famed in song and story in England, will be shown for the first time in this country at the Orange County Kennel club dog show. The dogs were recently imported by Ray Rockett, an oil man of Carlsbad.

Frank Isabell, former White Sox baseball star, has entered four champion chow dogs.

Midwick Kelly, an English bulldog, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Willard Smith of Orange, is entered. Midwick Kelly was judged the best non-sporting English bull at the Long Beach Kennel Club show August 18-19. Mr. Smith is a county supervisor.

Judging at the dog show began at 10:30 o'clock this morning. H. C. Schackenberg of Orange is judging shepherd dogs. Mrs. Ella Morgan of Los Angeles is judging Boston bull terriers. Jack Bradshaw of Los Angeles is judge of all other breeds.

Judging and awarding of cups is expected to be completed tonight.

The Orange County Kennel club is awarding a large silver loving cup to the best dog in the show.

Awards in the industrial department and the automobile show will be made tomorrow, Roger Pohlman, superintendent of the industrial department, announced today.

Help in whiling away the afternoons at the fair is being given by John Henry Lyons, song leader. Lyons, who is director of music education in the Pasadena public schools leads the crowd in the main tent in popular songs. He is on the job afternoon and night. Lyons was a song director in the A. E. F. in France during the World war.

The racing program of the fair got under way shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with a parade of Orange County stock horses. The first race was a quarter mile dash for Orange county horses. It was won by Orphan Girl, owned by Lem Thrall of Santa Ana.

Although the broiling sun held the audience of the racing premiere down, theprogram was fast. John Ragan, managing director of the fair's race program, Guy Campbell, arena director, "Doc" Cardse and Walter Lamb, judges, officiated at the opening ceremonies.

The curtain will go up on the second act of the horse show tonight. A parade of blue bloods will be the first event at 8 p. m.

The Santa Ana Register figured informally in a first prize yesterday. The paper was used in arranging the table which was judged the most originaly set in the culinary department. Doilies, center pieces and bib napkins were cut out of the classified ad sections and the comic sections of The Register to furnish something new in table arrangement.

The table was set by Miss Marie Hinricks, Orange, route 2. Miss Hinricks is a teacher in the Seventeenth Street school in Los Angeles.

The twelfth annual Orange County fair makes its bow for this year tomorrow. The day has been designated Orange County and Children's day. Children under 12 years of age, accompanied by their parents, will be guests of the fair tomorrow and admitted without charge.

The Santa Ana municipal band will play afternoon and night tomorrow.

The fair management is counting on large crowds today and tomorrow to offset some of the hot weather stay-at-homes that have held the biggest fair, in point of size and elaborateness, from breaking attendance records.

by Cowden and of the great antiquity of the human fossils they contained.

Quail Member of Party

Quail will accompany Professor Harrington as a member of an expedition to be assembled by him to explore thoroughly the mounds which suddenly have confronted science with a probable answer to the questions of man's age in America. Quail and the writer are to be closely associated with Professor Harrington on this expedition and will work side by side with the famous scientist and H. Flagler Cowdon when they clear the micacious shrouds away from the human fossils which are believed to have lain buried for not les than 15,000 years or more.

The discovery of these mounds by Quail and the detailed research by Professor Harrington will mean much to Southern California to prove that this section WAS inhabited by men when ancient beasts of the Pleistocene epoch roamed the Pacific coast in great numbers.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Stocks scored further aggressive gains today, in response to the moderate increase in brokers' loans during the week ended September 5. The fact that collateral borrowings expanded only $54,000,000 in a period of tremendous activity and sweeping advances in the main body of stocks was interpreted to indicate that the market was keeping itself in a sound position notwithstanding its buoyant character.

Although banks called in additional $20,000,000, a surplus of funds went unloaned at the official call rate of 7½ per cent rate and large offerings were available in the outside market in the afternoon at 7 per cent and lower.

Steel common again furnished strong leadership, achieving new high ground for the year on a large volume of dealings.

New highs on the movement were reached by Chrysler, Consolidated Gas and man other representative issues.

N. Y. CURB

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Buying orders continued to pour in on the curb market in large volume today, following the only moderate increase in brokerage loans as reported by the federal reserve after the close of the market last night. Bullish demonstrations were staged in Industrial Rayon, Kimberly Clark, American and foreign power warrants, Ford Motor of Canada and Midland Steel products. Industrial Rayon extended its gain to nearly 20 points in the late dealings, while Ford Motor of Canada rose nearly as much.

Columbia Graphaphone met heavy buying following belated recognition of favorable dividend action on the issue yesterday while Bancitaly, Deforest, Grosselli Chemical and Fox theater all made substantial gains. Auburn Auto was a lone weak spot, breaking around five points on small sales. Trans-continental air transport was firm on strength in Airplane stocks on the big board.

Good gains were made by consolidate Gas of Baltimore, Electric Bond and Share Securities and Electric investors.

BONDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(UP)—Announcement of the government September 15 financing of a $[illegible] issue of nine-month certificates at an interest rate of 4½ per cent brought out some selling in the general bond list today. Trading quieted down after an early burst of activity.

United States government issues were dull, only two issues appearing during the morning and these practically unchanged. The 4½ per cent figure on the new financing is the highest paid in the last four years and gives a picture of what the treasury department thinks of the money market for the future. If the government is forced to pay 4½ per cent on its notes, the general belief is that call money will not get below six per cent for some time. The money continued dull today at 6½ per cent, the general tendency being to steer borrowers into demand loans for the present.

Foreign issues were ⅛ to ⅜ points lower in most sections. Italian issues were irregular. Montecatini 7s with warrants, yesterday's favorite, losing a point and Rome 6½s rising ¼.

Copper convertibles rose with the stock market, but Barnsdall 6s with warrants eased off, as did public service of New Jersey convertible 4½s. Sinclair 7s lost ½ point and Pathe 7s gained that amount.

St. Paul 5s of 1975 were the most active in the rail group, easing ½ point. Frisco 4s "A" dropped nearly a point and most other carrier issues declined fractionally.

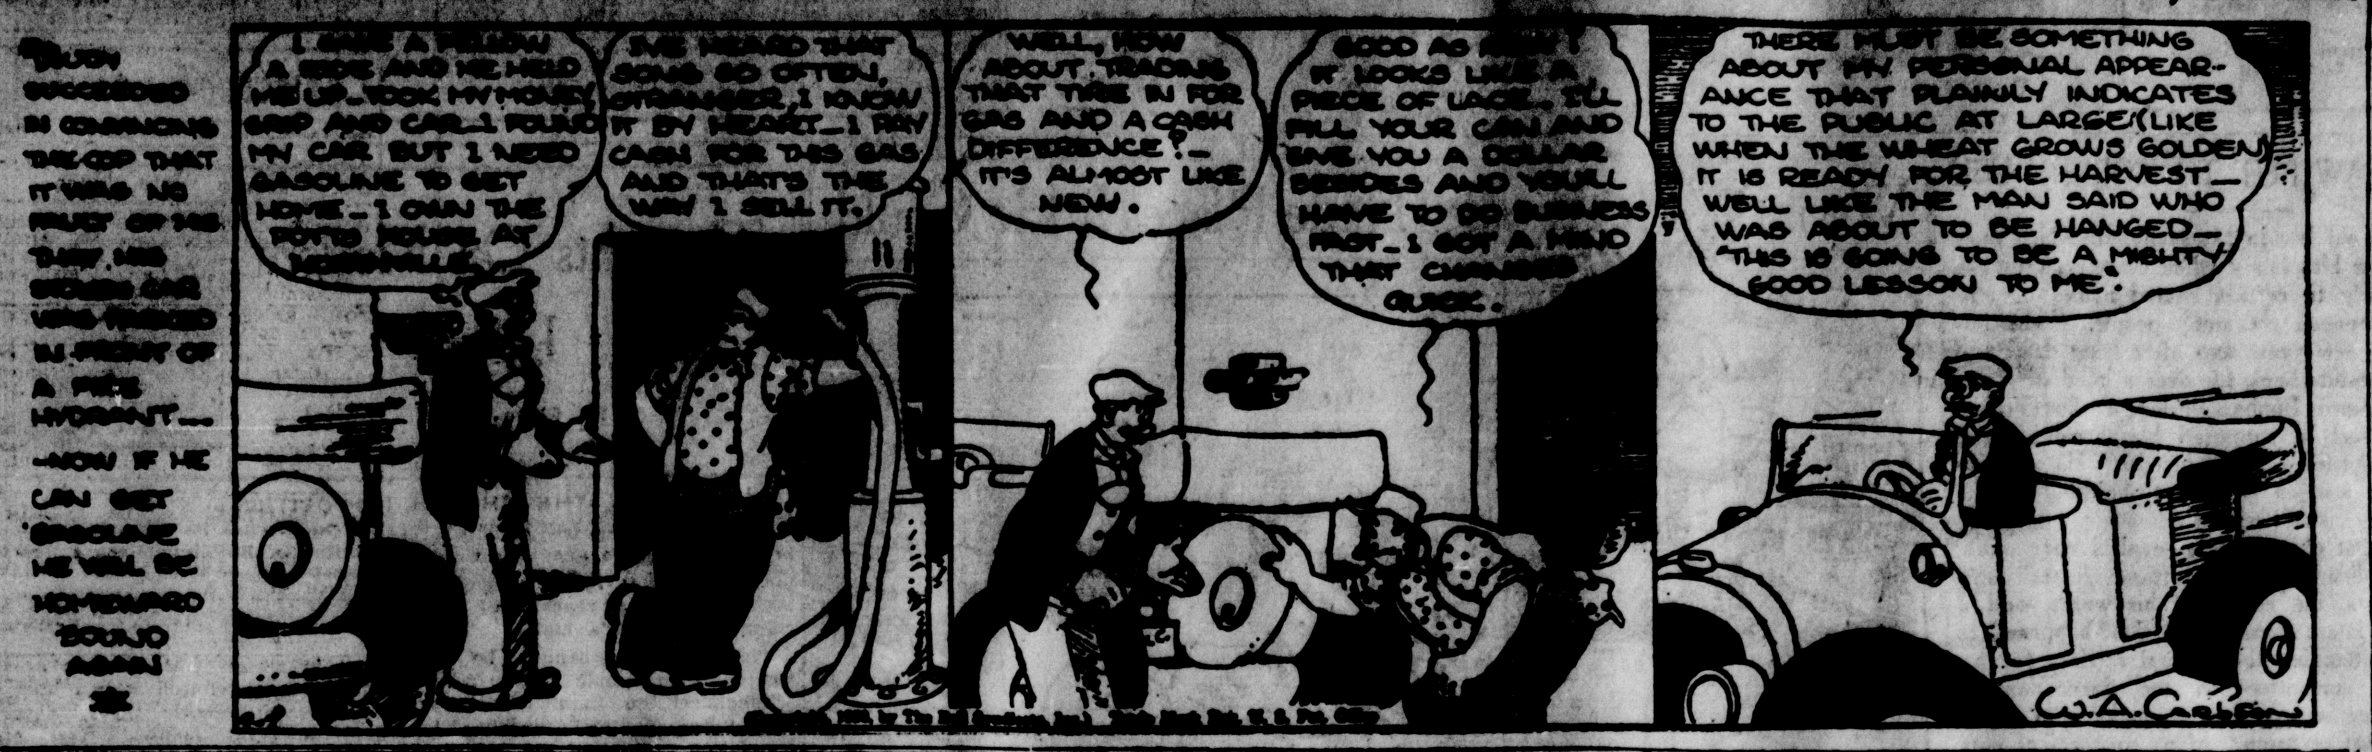
THE NEBBS—The Chicken and The Fox

By SOL HESS



Rudy succeeded in convincing the cop that it was no fault of his that his stolen car was parked in front of a fire hydrant— —now if he can get gasoline he will be homeward bound again
I GAVE A FELLOW A RIDE AND HE HELD ME UP—TOOK MY MONEY, GRIP AND CAR—I FOUND MY CAR BUT I NEED GASOLINE TO GET HOME—I OWN THE POTTS HOUSE AT NOBSVILLE
I'VE HEARD THAT SONG SO OFTEN, STRANGER, I KNOW IT BY HEART—I PAY CASH FOR THIS GAS AND THAT'S THE WAY I SELL IT.
WELL, HOW ABOUT TRADING THAT TIRE IN FOR GAS AND A CASH DIFFERENCE?— IT'S ALMOST LIKE NEW.
GOOD AS NEW? IT LOOKS LIKE A PIECE OF LACE. I'LL FILL YOUR CAN AND GIVE YOU A DOLLAR BESIDES AND YOU'LL HAVE TO DO BUSINESS FAST—I GOT A MIND THAT CHANGES QUICK.
THERE MUST BE SOMETHING ABOUT MY PERSONAL APPEARANCE THAT PLAINLY INDICATES TO THE PUBLIC AT LARGE (LIKE WHEN THE WHEAT GROWS GOLDEN) IT IS READY FOR THE HARVEST— WELL LIKE THE MAN SAID WHO WAS ABOUT TO BE HANGED— "THIS IS GOING TO BE A MIGHTY GOOD LESSON TO ME".

IT'S JUST TOO BAD
If you are thinking of buying property and you don't do it now, we've said it! For instance, a 20-acre grove for $63,000—a grove with a crop record, clear of encumbrance—and $20,000 will make the first payment. 2991.
Or 10 acres at $20,000, all young trees about seven years, we believe, which means that all the best crops are ahead of it. 2719.
All you have to do is to ask to see number ——?

EVENING SALUTATION

There are gems of wondrous brightness
  Ofttimes lying at our feet
And we pass them, walking thoughtless,
  Down the busy crowded street.
If we knew, our pace would slacken,
  We would step more oft with care,
Lest our careless feet be treading
  To the earth some jewel rare.
    —Kipling, "If We Only Understand."

"LOVE SUFFERETH LONG"

A mother in Chicago the other day, suffering from a fractured skull with bandaged face and head, pleaded with the police not to punish her son who had perpetrated the injury.

That is the mother love. It is the love that suffereth long and is kind. We have seen it manifested in other members of the family than in the mother. Sitting in the night police court in New York City, we saw a little boy stand beside his father who was charged with beating the child cruelly while drunk. We heard the boy plead with the judge to spare his father and it was the most pitiful incident we have ever witnessed.

We expected to see the father released in answer to the wish of the boy, but at the conclusion we heard the court declare that this was the third time this man had been before him for the same offense—brutally beating his defenseless, weak boy—and this was the third time the boy had come to the court to beg the court to release the father. Before he had done so but now he said in the interest of the child himself he must incarcerate the father.

In the interest of children brutal parents must be restrained. In the interest of motherhood unfilial and brutal children must be corrected and punished. The wonder is that we have in the midst of harshness and brutality this wonderful self-sacrificing love. If there is anything which could appeal to a person to make him grow "straight" and strong, one would think it would be the appeal of love, and yet the heavy hand of the law is needed.

ONE OF AMERICA'S PROBLEMS

A professor of Washington University, speaking before the Institute of Politics, said there are 12,000 Chinese and 64,000 Japanese who are American born citizens, most of them in Southern California. Their culture is American and their loyalty is to the United States.

While they furnish problems for America they have their own individual problems. They are forbidden both by the statutes and social customs from intermarrying with Caucasians. Some of them will not marry natives of China or Japan because of the differences in culture and environment. They can refrain from marrying or they can marry those who are also Chinese or Japanese citizens of the United States. This may solve their own problem to some extent, but it only emphasizes the social problem for the United States and especially for California. They are being assimilated with the white people.

The melting pot does make them Americans in training, culture, and loyalty, which is much, but in social life they can hardly be considered a part. Of course we can readily understand that some might add to this statement, "it depends upon who establishes the standard of social life."

From the standpoint of human sympathy we are all interested in seeing how this great problem is worked out and we must do our part in working it out.

The next time your neighbor goes to shouting about politics ask him what the first 17 amendments are.

CLOSE UP THE HOLES

Frank G. Snook, the chief of the state division of Motor vehicles, has made a move in the right direction. He has ordered all state traffic officers to cancel the operators license of every person found guilty of reckless driving or driving while intoxicated. The judges who pronounce in these cases should see to it that the guilty party should quit driving, but if they do not, then this is the second chance that the public may escape these mad men.

The efficiency of this order to deter others from committing the same offenses and to protect the public is the quick and certain cancelling of the license. Let no one whomsoever escape, then more of us will not be tempted to take chances. That is the way dame Nature operates. If you break one of her laws you are punished and no leniency whatever shown no matter who you are.

We note, however, that the suggestion is made that the driver whose license is revoked can again get a license by making application and going through the formality. This will not be so serious to the driver and not much of a protection to the public. The mere cancellation of a license is not of itself efficacious. The loser must know that it is for a long period of time and that he never can have it renewed without some evidence that he can be trusted to be always sober when at the wheel.

WOULD LIKE TO HAVE BEEN WITH HIM

We feel that we understand President Coolidge today better than we have ever understood him before. He is a real human being.

In the midst of their packing to return to the White House he grabs his fishing tackle and starts for the old fishing hole.

Every man who has ever moved knows the feeling that Calvin had and whether we have moved or not, we have had similar feelings at housecleaning time. The man who cannot invent some place to go or some business engagement at such a period as that is a mighty poor inventor.

We can just see Cal sneaking around the corner of the house, sliding under the trees and then, when he is completely out of sight, breaking into a run in order to get out of hearing. He may have enjoyed other fishing hours but never did he enjoy a fishing hour quite as keenly as he did the time he sneaked while the family was doing the packing. We are for him big.

AN OLD LAW PUT TO MODERN USE

There is an old law in Massachusetts which punishes a man for blasphemy when he refers critically or discourteously to certain sacred names or tenets held in common by many people. The law was invoked a few years ago after lying dead and buried in the statute book for over a hundred years. A Socialist named Bimba, during a shoeworkers' strike, made such a supposed blasphemous statement, and was tried for the offense. He was acquitted, but it was on a mere technicality of the law. So the law is still operative.

Last week that old law was invoked once more. Horace M. Kallen, one of Professor James' most brilliant students, the editor of his works, and a philosopher of international reputation, happened to be in Boston attending the funeral services for his mother. The committee on the Sacco-Vanzetti Memorial service secured him to make one of the addresses on that occasion. Many speakers of note were on the program, including men like President Meiklejohn, now of the University of Wisconsin, Gardner Jackson, a man of large humanitarian interests, the Rev. Harold Stratton, a Congregational minister of excellent reputation, and others equally well-known. In the course of his address, Dr. Kallen made the remark that if Sacco and Vanzetti were anarchists then Jesus was and Socrates was. Notes were taken by the police, and a warrant was issued for the arrest of Dr. Kallen. Fortunately for Massachusetts Dr. Kallen happened to be out of the state, and could not be served. The moment the matter was suggested, a great popular protest went up from leading citizens praying that the Commonwealth be not made ridiculous before the country by carrying out the case. Massachusetts has had enough unfavorable notoriety recently, not only with reference to the Sacco-Vanzetti case, but also because of the wholesale book censorship which has been carried on for the past few years. There are too many people left in Massachusetts who do not want to be put in the same category with Tennessee which carried out the Scopes trial. So the whole question was squelched.

The days of Lusk laws are about done for. Those men who want always to steady the ark of the covenant ought to be learning their lesson by this time. Freedom to speak one's convictions, answerable only for the consequences of his speech, is one of the basic human rights granted by the Constitution. They who would curb that sacred right, not only make themselves ridiculous, but they undermine the foundations of a true democracy.

REVERTING TO TYPE

Dispatches from Glasgow declare that a scientist, Sir Richard Paget of the British Association for the advancement of science, said at one time at the beginning of the race men could not speak but roared like lions.

We are sure it is not difficult for some wives to believe this for they are certain that their husbands are reverting to type. It may be that this is not confined to the male of the species.

President Calles' Wise Move

Long Beach Press-Telegram

Where shall Mexico look for a suitable successor to President Calles?

While the question is important, it is minor in contrast with the change that has come over the political practices of the southern republic.

Perhaps the death of General Obregon, following his election to the Presidency, has had a sobering effect. It is more probable, however, that moderation of military spirit, which in times past has been drastic in its expression, has been brought about by a combination of circumstances, in which the influence of the American ambassador, Dwight W. Morrow, may have place.

In announcing his final and unalterable decision to retire from office at the expiration of his present term, President Calles commented on the lack of a dominant military leader, and pointed out that this of itself would tend towards peaceful solution of existing problems. His proposal for representation in the government of all factions is a further indication of a sincere desire to make a large contribution to stability and progress.

In response to these friendly and constructive announcements and suggestions, it is certain that there will appear the right type of man as a successor to Senor Calles in the executive chair.

Calles' determination seems to be based chiefly on his desire to follow the constitution of his country, succession in that high office being specifically forbidden. This respect for law should inspire like respect in other seats of Mexican authority, and should make possible a basis of understanding with leaders of the opposition.

Better days for Mexico will result from such policies.

Professor Hazed

Oakland Tribune

It is not every day that a professor is made to turn his coat wrong side out, asked to propose to a co-ed and given moments of acute embarrassments—and certainly not often that such an exhibition is followed by no word of remonstrance from a faculty or president. At the University of California the story is being told of a new professor, one of youthful men, who was mistaken for a freshman and, despite his protests, put through several of the degrees in college initiation before the mistake was discovered. The professor has made himself popular by taking it all in good part, but for several days there were some highly nervous sophomores. Initiation this year at Berkeley was, according to college men, fully up to the level of the past. The stranger in the city, met with students in outlandish garb, seeing "traffic officers" of grotesque appearance, and stumbling in street-corner proposals, is given a taste of university life and color of the kind which used to be features in fiction. Berkeleyans, however, are so accustomed to the spectacle that they even yawn in the face of important rites.

Fiction Keeps Coming Out to Be Hard Fact

San Francisco Chronicle

The hidden valley in the midst of the ice cap, warmed by hot springs or volcanic fires underneath, and teeming with birds and animals, has long been a favorite in story tellers imaginations. But there really is such a one. An expedition to Edge island, east of Spitsbergen, last year, traveling over the central ice cap, came suddenly out of the Artic fog into a different world. At their feet and entirely surrounded by the ice lay a green valley, fifteen miles long by eleven miles wide, and thronged with reindeer. The deer had almost no fear for their human visitors. Edge island had never been penetrated before, and this story-book valley had remained unsuspected by all the explorers and sealers and trappers who for centuries have visited its shores.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

DEPENDENCE

I know that the way to win power or place
  Or culture or learning or pelf,
Is never to crave any help in the race
  But to do all the labor yourself.
I know that a man can be wholly self made,
  That alone he can sturdily stand
And never go out and ask others for aid
  In the task at his hand.

It is weak to depend on the mind of a clerk—
  Although brains of that sort can be bought—
For the facts that one needs in performing his work
  Or the strengthening function of thought.
To lean upon others is futile and vain
  And though labor is toilsome and slow,
The only wise way is to cudgel one's brain
  For the things he must know.

I know many men whose assistants prepare
  The work which they brazenly sign.
The credit they take, with a satisfied air,
  Without ever writing a line.
What growth can there be in that sort of a game?
  Why don't they go straight to their shelves
And do their own work, knowing well that their fame
  Has been won by themselves?

If I could afford a while army of men
  To do all my thinking for me,
So I might play a few rounds of golf now and then
  And feel unrestricted and free,
Would I stoop to employ them to do every task
  That might haply redound to my good,
Would I lean on their brains for assistance? I ask,
  Yes, reader, I probably would!

VACATIONS

All over the world people are coming back from their vacations. Some of them have exerted themselves so strenuously that the main thing they need after a vacation is a rest.

A strange idea is that you can rest a tired brain by over-exerting an untrained body.

Some people play round after round of golf, others swim too often or too long, others take far too strenuous exercise in walking or bicycling.

Extensive automobile trips are very trying to the nerves and often leave one exhausted.

The idea in a vacation is to change the kind of exercise of our bodies and brains.

If we have been working strenuously with our brain, it is an excellent vacation to loaf and do nothing. It does not always rest us to over-exercise with our body.

Contrariwise those who have been engaged in too strenuous bodily work should pay more attention to their brain work in a vacation.

The truest recreation is to stop the tension, whatever it is, and give one's organisms time to even themselves up, and use those faculties that have been neglected.

Too much sightseeing results often in mental fatigue, and we soon tire of it.

Vacationing, as well as work, needs planning. It should send us back to our task refreshed and full of happy memories of the vacation time.

If we come back to our work tired and fagged out, our recreation has done us little good.

It is a wise man who knows how to divert himself without exhaustion.

Probably the best vacation is [illegible] doing nothing and giving body and brain a chance to [illegible].

When we are doing nothing [illegible] and afterwards we are ready [illegible].

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

THE CHURCH IN POLITICS

"Has the church any business to become an active agent in reform movements that resort to political action?" asks a reader of this column in today's mail.

This question cannot be answered by a simple yes or no.

Whenever the church becomes an agency of political pressure for legislation regulating the habits of individuals or reforming the practices of institutions, there will always be men whose appetites or interests have been affected who will cry out that the church should stay out of politics, leave industry to the business men, and stick to its gospel.

The church cannot afford to surrender to the merely uncritical protests of vested interests that have felt the force of its power, but many of the reform activities of the church might well be subjected to a ruthlessly realistic examination.

The church is supposed to bring to mankind an expert judgment on spiritual values, and spiritual values do not operate in a vacuum—they operate in the ways and means by which men live and make their living, in the procedures of rearing families, running businesses, and ruling nations. All of which means that the moral meaning of the daily practices of men is the legitimate concern of the church.

The church must preach its principles today in a world that is radically different from the world in which its Founder prosecuted His brief ministry; it is, therefore, the business of the church to show men what its religion means in terms of life in modern America and modern Europe and modern Asia rather that what it meant in terms of life in ancient Palestine.

But in many of the reform activities of the church it has been the ignorant fanatic type rather than the intelligent statesman type of leader who has planned and prosecuted the campaign.

The moral obligation to be intelligent rests as heavily upon the church as upon its members.

It is not enough that good intentions be represented in a reform that the church backs; great intelligence must be put into all the basic provisions of the reform.

The church must never be content to create three new evils by a reform movement that may cure one evil, nor must the church follow Machiavelli in thinking that the end justifies the means. The church must not condone in its reformers practices it would castigate in politicians or take too calmly the bad side-results that often accompany a single-minded devotion to some given reform.

The church must not be content with reforms in the interest of the weakling that set subtle forces of demoralization at work among the strong.

The sentimentally romantic efforts of the church to moralize public affairs have often been disastrous; a scientifically realistic attempt to apply the test of spiritual values to the processes of society is a different thing.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

PROPERTY RIGHTS

Each child ought to have some things that are his own. Even a very young child ought to know his ball and teddy bear as exclusively his own. If anyone else wishes to use these belongings he is to ask the child's permission before using them.

Along with owning things comes the place to keep them. A drawer set aside as the child's own, or a closet, a shelf, a chest, some place somewhere that is recognized as the child's private possession is to be provided. No one is to take anything out of the place unless the child agrees.

The little children are to be taught to keep their things in the place assigned for them. That impresses them with the duty of caring for one's property. Possessions bring duties and obligations with them and the sooner children learn that the better. It is difficult to establish the idea of order and care after a child has been accustomed to leaving his things strewn about the house, but if the child is to grow into a successful adult he must learn just that lesson.

An appreciation of property rights, the respect for one's own things, teaches regard for the property and the rights of others. When a child keeps his own things in order, when he learns to mend them and adapt them to his use, he will have a sympathetic attitude toward the other person who has things, and let them alone, even help care for them.

This early training in the respect and care for things that are owned is one of the best ways to ward off the very troublesome phase of child experience—pilfering. No child likes to lose his things to a go-getter without conscience. Nothing irritates a child more than to have another child appropriate his property. The more care he has been trained to bestow upon his own things, the more he has been taught that the things owned by the other members of the family are not to be touched without the owners' permission, the less chance there is of his helping himself to what he wants from the store of his neighbor.

There is a feeling in some families that it is not brotherly or sisterly to preserve property rights but to consider the belongings of one to the possessions of all. That may be a fine idea, but it rarely ends anywhere save in trouble and tears. I know a boy who is a painter. He saves all his spare money for colors and brushes and whatever materials his work requires. Every now and then his sister descends upon his workroom and uses his colors, brushes, paper, as she sees fit and leaves them in a hopeless condition. Nothing can be done about it because the mother says, "Hush, hush. She is your little sister. What harm if she uses a little paint?" Much harm to the spirit of the boy.

To each his own and no borrowing. Ask permission to use anything that belongs to another but get along without. If that notion is adopted in the household a whole series of difficulties will vanish.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
